THE CONTEST AROUND PARIS.

Notes of the Battle to the South of Paris—Large Numbers of Wounded Sent Into the City—Wise Advantage Claimed by the Communists—The Commandant of Fort Issy Killed by His Own Men.

PARIS, April 12—Noon—via LONDON, 10½ P. M.—A loud and uninterrupted cannonade has been kept up since last evening between Chatillon and the southern forts. Infantry are also engaged, and the noise of the mitrailleuse and musketry has been incessant since 5 o'clock this morning. Cannonading around Neuilly, Porte Maillot and the Porte du Terne is has been resumed, and is as violent as that on the south. Fighting is now going on in the Bois de Boulogne and at Asnieres. The Communards are forwarding reinforcements to the troops engaged. The wounded are coming in in large numbers. The losses are heavy.

The official reports of the Communards claim that the Versailles forces were repulsed on Tuesday evening in an attack on the southern forts, and that their loss was heavy, while that of the Communists was very light. The Communists believe that the attack was intended to mask an attempt to carry the Maillot Gate by surprise. A rumor comes from the Vaugirard quarter, in the southern part of the city, that the Communists have lost the Park of Issy, where they were intrenched, and that the commandant of Fort d'Issy has been shot by his own men.

PARIS, April 11—Evening—via LONDON, April 12.—Yesterday a Sergeant of the National Guard wounded a Prussian at St. Denis; a conflict ensued between the French and the Prussians, and some members of the Commune soon made their appearance with a flag of truce, but the Prussians declined to recognize it. The disturbance, however, soon ceased. The cannonade before Paris has recommenced, and many shells are falling about the Porte Maillot and in the Champs Elysées. Placards counseling conciliatory measures toward the Versailles Government have been destroyed. The women of Paris have been invited to form a military organization for the defense of the city. Fort Montrouge was attacked by the Army of Versailles at 10 o'clock this forenoon, and a violent cannonade and rifle fire is yet in progress.

VERSAILLES, April 11.—The trial of the leaders of the insurrection which recently occurred in this city was commenced today, and the cases of MM. FERRÉPIER and CARBIEUX will be decided by Thursday.

VERSAILLES, April 12.—The commanding officer of Paris is less frequent today, and nothing of importance has transpired.

A Commune Commanding Mends Up—A Clergyman Killed by a Mob—Affairs at Asnieres—A Serjeant Slain With the Prussians—The Women Called Upon to Defend Paris—Trial of Insurgent Leaders at Versailles.

LONDON, April 12.—A special dispatch from Versailles to the London Daily News says the factory camp has been raised, and the troops will march to Paris. The Prussians have established a battery at St. Denis, the guns of which point toward Paris.

The cure of the Church of the Madeleine is reported to have been assassinated by a Parisian mob. A special dispatch from Paris to the London Telegraph says the Church of Notre Dame de Lorette has been pillaged. Arrests are increasing.

A dispatch from Paris says: A report from Gen. DOMBROWSKI asserts that the result of the Versailles reconnoissance at Asnieres has been greatly exaggerated. Asnieres has been greatly exaggerated. Asnieres was to be adopted against refractory Nationals. A rumor of the death of M. VERMOREL, the distinguished journalist, is contradicted. Several companies of the Commune Guard are encamped at Asnieres. The rest of the insurgent forces are in the trenches.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

The Interference of Words Except to Secure the Indemnity—The Peace Conference—Manners of Prisoners from Germany.

BERLIN, April 12.—The official journal of today says that Germany will only interfere in the domestic affairs of France when it shall become necessary for the collection of the money due to herself.

BRUSSELS, April 12.—The representative of the Grand Duchy of Baden in the Peace Conference has arrived in this city. No meeting of the Conference is, however, to be held this week.

LONDON, April 12.—The Echo, of Cologne, says the French prisoners are leaving Germany for home at the rate of 1,000 per day. The Echo adds that only those who are known to be favorable to the Versailles Government are allowed to depart.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

Napoleon III at Chiselhurst—President Grevy's Regrets at Admiral Tegethoff's Death Received at Vienna.

LONDON, April 12.—NAPOLEON is ill at Chiselhurst, and has been confined to his room several days.

VIENNA, April 12.—Mr. JAY, Minister of the United States, has received by cable a dispatch from President GRANT expressing deep regret at the painful loss to Austria by the death of Admiral TEGETHOFF.

CAUSE OF THE EMPIRE

An Imperialist Manifesto—M. Clement Duvernois on a Herald of an Approaching Campaign.

From the Pall Mall Gazette, March 30.

M. CLEMENT DUVERNOIS, who for some years acted as a kind of literary aide-de-camp to the Emperor NAPOLEON, and was afterward Minister of Agriculture under the Regency, has addressed a letter to M. THIERS, which may be taken as a sign that the Imperialists are now prepared to enter on an active campaign for the restoration of the dynasty, if not personally of the Ex-Emperor himself. This letter, of which we have received an early copy, will be published in the Situation of to-morrow, and deserves attention both as an able and vigorous argument in favor of the Empire and as an indication of the feelings and opinions by an appeal to which the Imperialists hope to carry the day. While the war was going on, the latter felt bound to follow the example of reticence set by the Emperor, and to abstain from saying or doing anything which could weaken the Government of the hour. But the war being over, the situation has changed, and as duty to their country, as well as in justice to themselves, they are constrained to answer the attacks of M. THIERS and his friends, and strike out a line for themselves.

Starting with the assumption that the chief necessity of the hour is a reorganization and consolidation of the different sections of the Conservative Party in France, in order to make head against anarchy and prevent the dismemberment of the country, M. DUVERNOIS proceeds to consider how this is to be accomplished. "From the present Government," he says, "we have nothing to hope. Just as the Government of National Defense occupied itself much more actively in fighting against the Empire than fighting against the Prussians, so the Government which succeeded have thought only of denouncing the Conspiracies, instead of repressing the Realms of the demagogues. Reviewing the principal accusations against the Empire, he retorts them upon M. THIERS and his Ministers. It was they, he declares, who, by their speeches, denouncing the aggrandizement of Prussia, rendered war inevitable; it was they who crippled the military resources of France by their opposition to permanent organization; and the conclusion of peace. M. DUVERNOIS also asserts that peace on favorable terms might have been made after Sedan if M. THIERS and his friends had not overthrown the responsible Government, and reminds them that for the miserable state of Paris at the present moment they are responsible, in so far as they demanded the arming of the National Guards of Belleville and Montmartre. National bankruptcy must be the inevitable result if civil war comes to complete the work of invasion; but with a strong and respected Government, a Government that could restore and maintain order, and so fortify the financial credit of France and secure free scope for industrial activity, the country would soon forget the present desolate condition. The question is where such a Government is to be found:

"Let us see, then, whether you represent order. Looking at the present state of affairs it is difficult to accord you that title. Paris in revolution, Marseilles, Lyons, St. Etienne in insurgent—that is what at first sight the map in hand is to present to his eyes in your Government the elements of order, a principle of authority which can be established? The answer, alas! is easy. The source of your power is an illegitimate assembly—an assembly and your Government is Republican, at least in appearance. You declare that the Chamber represents the country and that all authority emanates from it, and while you restless that at least three out of four deputies are Monarchists you call your Ministry a Republican Ministry, and your policy a Republican Administration. In the face of this complete contradiction—in the face of this spectacle of a monarchical assembly governing by the agency of Republicans—the Monarchists are exasperated and the Republicans are exasperated. The former ask what is the good of asserting their opinions if they are ignored and condemned to inactivity. The others, with good reason, demand a Republican Ministry, and withdraw from the Chamber of Deputies

The Texas Legislature has had a scene over a proposition to change the name of Davis County to Lincoln County. A compromise was finally made, and the county named Cass, in honor of LEWIS CASS.

The Albany Journal, of last evening, says that the new Board of Supervisors of Albany County, elected on Tuesday, will stand fourteen Republicans and fifteen Democrats, a gain of one Republican over last year.

The State Fair is to be held in Albany this year, and Rochester is working for a great Western New-York Fair in that city next Fall, which shall eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the State.

The Richmond Tobacco Association on Monday adopted new regulations for sampling and inspections, and voted to call a convention in Richmond in May of planters and dealers in tobacco in Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia.

Some of the Northern Democratic papers, notably the Chicago Times, have expressed their disapproval of JEFF. DAVIS' "lost cause" speech in Selma, Ala., and the Mobile Register takes them to task for thus abusing him, saying that "it neither hurts Davis nor helps the Democracy."

The Yale crew refuse to take part in a convention to arrange for a general university regatta, as proposed by Harvard, unless Harvard will give a square answer to the challenge sent it by Yale last December. When that is done, they will be ready to consider the other matter.

The Republican members of the North Carolina Legislature formally declared their disapproval of the pending call for a constitutional convention in that State, as unconstitutional and revolutionary, and recommended the people to vote it down at the polls.

The surviving members of the Burnside expedition, and of the Ninth Army Corps, will hold a meeting in Boston on the 11th of May—about the time of the annual meetings of the Army of the Potomac and the Grand Army of the Republic.

It was not THEODORE PARKER, but RALPH WALDO EMERSON, of whom the late Father TAYLOR of Boston once said that when he dies he must go to heaven, "for the devil would not know what to do with him if he got him;" adding, "if he goes to hell, he will change the climate and the emigration that way."

Mr. C. F. NORRIS has published a card in the Jackson (Miss.) Clarion, denying all responsibility for the publication of Senator ALCORN'S private letter to himself. He says that he left the letter on his desk in the State House of Representatives, and it was stolen during his absence and published without his knowledge or consent.

It is a suggestion of the Utica Herald that whenever mention is made this season of buildings struck by lightning in this State mention shall also be made whether such buildings are provided with lightning-rods or not. It might be advisable to state, also, where there are rods, in what condition they are, how they are attached, in what kind of soil the foot is placed, &c.

Mr. WILLIAM POOLER, of Elmira, has great expectations, and this is the way of it: His brother, who spent his life in the far West, died in Iowa in February, leaving nearly a hundred claims to various silver mines which he had located, and, as the record runs, "probably had taken pains to have properly recorded." Among them is said to be a claim for a valuable mine near Salt Lake City.

There was a very light vote in Florida at the recent election on the proposed constitutional amendments. In Leon County, in which is Tallahassee, the capital, there were only 520 votes cast, out of a total registration of over 4,000; but not a single vote was cast there against the amendments. In Jacksonville there were 309 votes for the amendments, and 324 against them. Probably the five amendments were adopted, but sufficient returns have not yet been received to decide the matter.

A bill has been introduced in the Texas Senate providing for a division of the State, and the erection of a new State west of the Colorado River. One of the Texas Democratic papers, while not approving a division, says that if the bill passes, as it thinks it will, and goes to the people, those of the north and east of the State are so decidedly in favor of division, and their popular strength at the ballot-box is so great, that they will accept the division with the boundaries submitted to them rather than postpone the division to a more distant day.

Hon. LEONARD C. KILHAM, on his way home from Albany to Oneida last Saturday, asked the railroad conductor to telegraph for his horse to be at the depot on his arrival. Somehow the telegraph made a woful mistake, the word horse being transformed into hearse, and promptly to the depot repaired an undertaker in a full suit of doleful black, and with a hearse with drooping plumes, while the depot platform was crowded with melancholy friends with elongated faces. When the train stopped the first passenger to jump off was the expected corpse, manifesting as great a degree of animation as could be expected from a dead man.

What the Boston Advertiser calls a good story is told of a late college President near that city. It seems that one morning, at prayers, he discovered that some mischievous students had taken away the Bible and left in its place a dictionary. He said nothing, but omitted the usual reading from the Scriptures, and prolonged his prayer for a full hour. He made a severe call on the patience of the students, but whether by this singular course he impressed on their minds any greater reverence for the service, or caused them to realize the sincerity of his appeal, the "good story" fails to enlighten us.

A young man who fell from a train at Johnstown, Penn., and was severely injured, was discovered and arrested by a policeman and locked up on a charge of drunkenness. He was tried, found guilty, fined, and being without friends, was returned to jail. Meantime his father heard of his arrest, and went to pay the fine, but when he found in what condition his son was, he gave expression to his indignation, and was fined $5 for contempt, and was himself locked up. Finally both were released and went home, and there, within a day or two, the son died from the effects of the injuries received.

EX-Congressman JOHN C. CONNER made a political speech in Houston, Texas, on the evening of the 4th inst., in which he advised his hearers to be peaceable and law-abiding, but as Gov. DAVIS "sent his myrmidons to oppress any one of them, take his property and insult his family, he would meet him on the threshold, rifle in hand, for when martial law was proclaimed, by that very proclamation the laws were suspended, and there were no laws to punish crimes, for crime was only an infraction of the laws thus suspended." When he concluded, there were loud calls for "Dixie" from the band. The band complied, and the tune was loudly cheered.

Recent Earthquake Shocks in San Francisco.

From the San Francisco Bulletin, April 4.

At 7 o'clock yesterday evening a distinct, but not severe shock of earthquake was felt. In many portions of the city this was not noticed, and even where it was noticed it was not sufficiently vigorous to cause serious alarm except among extremely nervous persons, who were fearful that the heaviest was yet to come—and they were not wrong. Twenty minutes afterward two distinct shocks were felt, which, although comparatively inert, following as they did on the heels of the first, caused a general stampede from some quarters in which they were most perceptible. Many persons in the saloons in the business portions of the city rushed into the street, in fearful anticipation of tumbling walls.

At the City Hall the shock was distinctly felt. In the prison quite an excitement prevailed among the prisoners, who were very anxious to get out, but Mr. COHEN, the prison keeper, preferred to emulate the soldier of Herculaneum, who died at his post at the city gate. Chief CROWLEY was in his office with several detectives, and when the first "quake" came, Detective GANNON ran out to the Plaza, probably to enjoy the air, and several other officers followed to —— bring him back. In several of the billiard saloons the shocks were distinctly felt, and before they had passed, many of the players "caromed" into the middle of the street, and there "counted" the swaying lights. The audience in the Alhambra Theatre were not generally disturbed.

In many of the churches the congregations were startled by the shake. In the Church of the Advent individuals looked around with countenances expressive of alarm, to ascertain if others proposed to "break for our doors." Had anyone made a move it is not unlikely that many would have followed. In Calvary Presbyterian Church, corner of Geary and Powell streets, the shock was severe enough to startle the worshipers greatly. They jumped to their feet, and several rushed into the open air. One lady fainted away, under the excitement. Order was however restored, and the services proceeded.

OUR SCHOOL TEACHERS.

The Charges against the Principal of Public School No. 31—Evidence of a Number of Teachers.

The investigation in the case of A. T. GALLAGHER, Principal of School No. 31, charged with being repeatedly intoxicated, neglecting his duties, and other offenses, was resumed before the Committee on Teachers of the Board of Education, yesterday. Mr. JOSEPH H. TOOKER appeared as counsel for Mr. GALLAGHER.

Miss A. M. TOMES testified that she had taught in School No. 31 for four years; had frequently seen Mr. GALLAGHER under the influence of liquor; knew it by his appearance, language, &c.; observed him on the 14th of February last; his actions were strange; he read the Bible in a peculiar and indistinct manner; have heard the pupils remark that he was drunk; a number of times he used improper language while apparently under the influence of liquor; had not examined witness' class for nearly three years; never gave directions as to witness' duties; Mr. GALLAGHER frequently promised to punish pupils, but never did so; the behavior of the pupils in had; semi-annual certificates have not been given out for four years.

Cross-examined—Had been asked by Mr. GALLAGHER within two months past for a list of pupils entitled to certificates; he spoke in an ugly and aggravating manner; about two months ago he told witness and several other lady teachers to "get out of here quick as you can;" first examination of witnesses' class was a failure.

Mrs. MARY E. MCMULKIN testified that she is Principal of Primary Department of School No. 12; taught in School No. 31 during 1866 and 1867; have noticed Mr. GALLAGHER during that time frequently under the influence of liquor; his face was flushed, his voice was husky and his breath smelled of liquor; the pupils remarked that Mr. GALLAGHER was "lurky;" have seen Mr. GALLAGHER asleep on the platform; he never examined witnesses' class; he generally passed his morning reading the newspapers; he was frequently absent from the school; have heard him use indecent language to the other teachers frequently.

Cross-examined—Mr. GALLAGHER was generally drunk in school; his breath frequently smelt strongly of liquor; teaching in the school; have been frequently transferred from one school to another; Mr. GALLAGHER expressed a desire to have witness in his school.

Miss CLARA E. BURCHIN, of Primary Department School No. 31, testified that she had seen Mr. GALLAGHER frequently under the influence of liquor.

Miss MARY ANKENS, of Male Department, School No. 31, testified that she had taught in school No. 31 in 1866 and 1870; frequently saw Mr. GALLAGHER under the influence of liquor; on one occasion he abused witness; he was generally reading a newspaper in school; never gave witness directions or assistance; had punished boys herself.

Mr. THOS. SHIELS, Chairman of Board of School Trustees in Seventh Ward, testified that he had never seen Mr. GALLAGHER under the influence of liquor in school; had seen him under the influence of liquor out of school; about a year ago saw him driving with a man in West Broadway; he was under the influence of liquor; teachers have frequently complained to witness that Mr. GALLAGHER did not assist them in discipline; boys complained also of his use of his language; witness felt dissatisfied with the order maintained in the school; Mr. GALLAGHER complained of his teachers to witness.

Cross-examined—The results of the examining schools under Mr. GALLAGHER were satisfactory; on the day schools he failed to maintain order; for about two months there has been no Vice-Principal in School No. 31.

Mr. KIDDLE, City Superintendent, said he would rest his case here.

Mr. TOOKER then offered some documentary evidence in behalf of Mr. GALLAGHER, which the Committee said they would consider.

Mr. KIDDLE was then asked by Mr. GALLAGHER to take the stand, but he positively refused to do so. He was, he said, acting for the Board and not as a witness.

The Chairman of the Committee said that the other side had no power to call Mr. KIDDLE as a witness; it would be an infringement of the rules of the Board.

Mr. TOOKER protested against this decision.

For the defence Mr. DENNIS J. TWIGG, a School Trustee in the Seventh Ward, was called, and testified that he had known Mr. GALLAGHER for eight years; sometimes visited the school every day; stayed sometimes one hour; never saw Mr. GALLAGHER under the influence of liquor—never to the slightest extent; no teachers had complained to witness about Mr. GALLAGHER; did not remember Mr. GALLAGHER being absent about last September.

The case was then adjourned to 2 P. M. on Saturday next.

National Emigration Bureau—Public Meeting—Resolutions and Addresses.

The first public meeting of the National Emigration Bureau, a new enterprise, was held, last evening, at Demilt Hall, corner of Second-avenue and Second-street. The hall was comfortably filled and a number of gentlemen of diverse interests and political complexions occupied the stand, among whom were Hon. Horace Greeley, Messrs. N. H. Sands, Paul N. Spofford, Edward De Leon, G. B. Lyman, Charles D. Marshall, of Mississippi, Gen. J. J. Imboden, of Virginia, and John Mitchel, the Irish exile. The meeting was called to order by Mr. GREELEY, who gave an explanation of its objects, and a brief and pungent history of what he knew about colonies.

Mr. GREELEY remarked, stating that there was in his mind no doubt of the success of other colonies, and that in view of the success of the one in Colorado, others would be formed if properly laid before the public.

Gen. IMBODEN followed, recommending the State of Virginia as a home for colonists, in the fruitfulness of its soil, the salubrity and beautiful climate of its climates, and its freedom from the Ku-klux outrages. He said that the State of Virginia was a law-abiding community, and had accepted the situation. He called upon Mr. GREELEY to corroborate his statement in regard to the internal peacefulness of Virginia.

Mr. GREELEY said that he would not only corroborate the statement as to the safety of a residence in Virginia, but he would say further that they were in reality more peaceful than we were in New-York, and far more peaceful than our Legislature. His remarks were greeted with laughter and applause.

Mr. CHARLES W. GODANCE appeared for Florida and spoke in glowing terms of the great natural resources of that State, of its settlement, and also of the grand opportunities afforded by the Florida colony under the auspices of the Florida Improvement Company. This gentleman told what he avowed was a truthful fish story, which was that in one of the rivers of Florida a gentleman traveling on the river encountered a school of fish that was so thick, and presented so much opposition to the passage of the boat, that he was obliged to sail around them.

Mr. THOMAS M. PEARSALL urged upon the audience the superior practical advantages offered by Texas, whose resources were equal to the supply of 30,000,000 of population.

Mr. PATTERSON, in a few words, expressed his sympathy with what had been said by the other speakers. He said that he understood the movement was on the co-operative plan, which was a system that he could recommend. In union there was strength.

Mr. GREELEY, in reply to some remarks from one of the audience, said that he did not believe in giving anything like a charitable feature to the movement. In reply to a query from another in the audience, he said that he believed that the colonies should be formed of people of particular ideas; let a number of Roman Catholics get together and colonize a tract, let another be formed of those who would put up a sign that "no Irish need apply," and so on, and then it could be seen which would work best. The Union Colony was composed of teetotalers.

Mr. MARSHALL, of Mississippi, advised emigrants not to be too enthusiastic about getting rich fast in colonies. He denied that there was such an extent of Ku-klux outrages in Mississippi as was represented, and, at the end of a speech made in ridicule of the existence of these atrocities, he asked, with great earnestness, "How can you believe such lies?"

Mr. GREELEY quietly asked the gentleman to tell the story about Major ORAM, which the gentleman declined to do, but closed with a warm invitation to Northern settlers to come to Mississippi. Short speeches, limited to ten minutes, were made by Messrs. PAUL N. SPOFFORD, EDWARD DE LEON and G. B. LYMAN.

The following is the substance of a long series of resolutions adopted and ordered by a subsequent resolution to be handed to the Secretary to be edited for publication at length: That a National Emigration Bureau be established in New-York, not to conflict with the State Commissioners of other States. That large colonies for town and country settlements upon a business basis be established. The first five thousand settlers to have peculiar rights and privileges, and efforts to be made to provide for emigration from the Eastern and Middle States, but not to in any way exclude emigrants from other parts of the country. Each colony, in its infancy, to consist of distinct organizations in order that every settler in his new home may be surrounded by the associations of his birth, kindred, religion, observances and business avocations to which he has been accustomed. The third resolution empowers the Bureau to establish a labor depot in connection with each colony settlement. In the fourth resolution the creation of a General Emigration Trust Fund subscribed and paid in by those intending to become actual settlers, but who have not decided upon a location. Each subscription to be not less than $500 and to be kept in reserve for payment of land, buildings and improvements, ten per cent of this amount to be paid in at the time of subscription. The fifth resolution was that without unreasonable delay, meetings be held in each country of the Middle and Eastern States for extended co-operation.

The Provisional Committee for carrying into effect the objects of the organization before chosen, were retained by resolution, and are as follows:

Horace Greeley, for Union Colony No. 1, Colorado; Paul N. Spofford, Taomas W. Pearsall, for Texas Colony, under the auspices of the International Railroad Company; Marshall O. Roberts, E. B. Hart, for Texas Colony, under the auspices of the Texas Pacific Railroad Company; Charles W. Godard, for Florida Colony, under the auspices of the Florida Improvement Company; Edwin De Leon, for Virginia Colony; Anthony J. Bleecker, for North Carolina Colony; Landy A. Lindsey, for West Virginia, Arkansas and Mississippi Colonies; Nathaniel Sands, Frans Sigel, Ch. Lasselle, of the Courier Des Etats Unis; G. F. Secchi De Casali, of the L'Eco D'Italia; A. M. Stewart, of the Scottish American Journal; Piercy Wilson, of the Albion; S. H. Isaacs, of the Jewish Messenger; Gustavus Obom, of the Skandinavish Post; John Mitchel, of the Irish Citizen; Frederick Schwedler, of the New-Yorker Demokrat.

It was further resolved that the organization make arrangements for the use of Demilt Hall as a general office or head-centre for colonizing movements.

THE FRAUDULENT TAX LEVY.

A Report from the Council of Reform—How the Swindles of the Ring are to be Covered Up.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the New-York Council of Reform was held last Tuesday, when a report was made by DEXTER A. HAWKINS, Esq., from the delegation sent to Albany to investigate the new bill of WILLIAM M. TWEED, entitled "An Act to make provision for the local government of the City of New-York," known as the TAX LEVY. The report states that section 1 of the bill is intended to convey the idea that for the next two years taxpayers are not to be taxed above two per cent. upon the assessed value of their property; but under that section one may find his taxes four or six per cent. The fair assessed value of real and personal property in the City and County of New-York is only about $1,000,000,000, and two per cent. upon this would be $20,000,000. In the Senate, the opponents of the Ring offered to limit the amount to not more than $22,500,000. This was refused by the Ring as too small. They then offered to limit it to not more than $25,000,000. This was rejected as too small. Whatever the valuation fixed by the Board of Assessors upon the 1st of January last is the public do not now know, but whatever it may be section 1 gives the right to put upon the property of the City as a debt to the aggregate equal to two per cent. upon this gross amount. This section, which, on a valuation of $2,000,000,000, would be $40,000,000. In this nominal valuation may be included all the value of free libraries, churches, &c., none of which actually pays a cent of tax. Also is included in it all the nominal capital of the manufacturing and mining companies, any or whose entire capital of one hundred, with a nominal capital of from one to five millions each, but generally with a real actual tax-paying capital of very little or nothing at all. When objections are made to this valuation, the Tax Commissioners will strike out all the non-taxable corporate properties; on getting the sworn statements of the manufacturing and mining companies, they reduce their valuation to their actual capital, which is nearly nothing. After hearing each citizen's objection to the valuation of his estate, they reduce that to what they think it should be. But this reduction of the valuation does not reduce the gross amount to be raised by taxation one cent. The gross amount is limited only to one per cent. of the aggregate equal to two per cent. on the gross amount of the nominal valuation already fixed on Jan. 1, 1871. These reductions of valuation only reduce the amount of the valuation of the property that is actually to pay the said aggregate sum. The smaller they make the valuation of the property that actually pays the said aggregate sum, the heavier will be the assessment of tax on each individual tax-payer's property.

The second section appears to convey the idea that no more money can be spent by the City Government in each year than is actually raised by taxation. This is not the fact. That section does not include the so-called City improvements that the City Government is carrying on, the cutting of new streets, the municipal subscription made and to be made to the Brooklyn Bridge, the $5,000,000 subscription to the Viaduct Railroad, the grand Croton water improvements. These may amount to $60,000,000 more during the next year.

The third section turns the whole public property and public money of the City and County over to the Common Council. The Board of Apportionment meet in June, and, after setting aside from this $40,000,000, or whatever sum is raised, the amount that goes to the State, and the amount necessary to pay the interest on our $70,000,000 of City debt, have the absolute control of the balance. The first appropriation they will make is that of $5,000,000, to pay claims against the county which have been audited and directed to be paid out of the taxes of the present year. Thus far, as no statement has been made to the public of the financial transactions of the City or county for the last year, the tax-payers have no means of knowing how many millions of illegal claims have thus been audited and paid, or who were the holders of them. But the best information thus far obtained indicates it over $5,000,000. If these claims had to be provided for by the Tax-Levy, TWEED & Co. would be required to state the amount, and thus bill is prepared to prevent this disagreeable exposure. This section further empowers the Council to appropriate to each branch of the City Government whatever amount of the public money they see fit, and to transfer, ad libitum, money from one appropriation to another. It thus gives the Ring the absolute control of every man and body of men, whether officers of Court, school-keepers, policemen, Police, fire, and any and all other employes under the City Government; for if any body of these men refuse to do the bidding of the Ring, this quartet could simply stop the entire appropriation of any money to pay their salaries. The last line of section 3 authorizes the transfer of any appropriation to "such other purposes as they shall find to require the same." As the bill runs through two years, a campaign fund of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 could be appropriated with perfect legality. Suppose the Ring decides that, to get the vote of a certain religious sect, it is necessary to appropriate $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 to build churches, monasteries, nunneries, and parochial school-houses for that sect, this last line of section 3 gives them per fect legal authority to do it, and moreover they can destroy the public schools by transferring the whole school money from them to some other institutions, or refuse the appropriation to the public schools altogether. The public indignation was so great at this clause of the section that the Ring offered to pass it as an amendment, but nine lines of this section authorize this appropriation to subsidize every sectarian school and church in the City. A large part of them can be supported directly from the public treasury, as they are now; and all of them can, under the last six lines, be wholly supported out of the excise moneys.

The report concludes as follows:

"We have now some slight protection against over-taxation and misappropriation in the single fact that the Tax Levy has to be sent to Albany, presented to the Legislature, published to the people and discussed before it becomes a law. This bill of Mr. TWEED'S destroys all publicity, all discussion, puts the whole matter at once into the hands of four men who act upon it in secret conclave, and practically tax us without limit, and then spend the money in any way they please and publish no accounts."

The Peace Jubilee—Post Festum.

The collections taken up on Sunday evening, during the jubilee services, in Pastor HELD'S church and Pastor MOHLDENKE'S church, two of the prmcipal German Protestant churches in this City, yielded $275 in aid of the wounded, and the widows and orphans of the German soldiers killed on the battle fields in France. The veterans of the Bavarian army, ex-officers and former soldiers, who were jointly represented in a body in the grand procession on Monday, held a meeting at No. 46 Avenue A yesterday, when action was taken to effect a permanent re-organization, for social and benevolent purposes, and for the annual celebration of the return of peace between Germany and France.

The dramatic Fest representation at the Stadt Theatre, on Tuesday evening, on account of the sudden inclemency of the weather, and probably partly in consequence of the fatigue resulting from the exertions of the day previous, had a rather limited attendance. A Fest prologue, or introductory play, a clever production by VICTOR PERCHE, Secretary of the General Fest Committee, was well received, and cleverly represented by Miss. SEEBACH and Miles. VENETA and WIESE. The characters of this play were Columbia, Miss VENETA; Germania, Miss. SEEBACH, and Gallia, (France,) Miss Wiese, representing a scene of conciliation between Germania and Gallia, at the interposition of Columbia. The proceeds of this performance will, as stated before, go to the German relief fund.

A committee of "Social Democrats," members of the International Union, and partisans of the leaders of the Paris Rouge rebellion, were on Monday circulating a call for a mass-meeting at the Tenth Ward Hotel, in opposition to the German peace demonstration, which, however, appears to have resulted in a fizzle.

The Courrier des Etats Unis compliments the Germans of this City for the good taste they displayed in the manner in which the demonstration was got up. It was, says the Courrier, truly a peace demonstration, and presented nothing offensive to the feelings of their French fellow-citizens. But the Courrier protests against the declaration in the resolutions passed at the mass-meeting—that France waged the war against Germany to prevent its unification—but claims that France was forced into it only to secure a readjustment of the frontier, which, in consequence of the concentration of power in Germany, became necessary to preserve the European balance of power.

THE ERIE FIGHT.

Progress of the Reference of Heath and Raphael Before the Master—Nearly Half of the Stock Discovered and Altered—Further Examination of Mr. Maiston.

Mr. KENNETH G. WHITE, Master in Equity, resumed the hearing in the reference in the matter of HEATH and RAPHAEL against JAMES FISK, Jr., and others, yesterday, in regard to the disposition of 80,064 shares of Erie stock, the property of the complainants and other English shareholders, which, it is alleged, the defendants fraudulently seized and hold possession of. The investigation disclosed some startling facts with reference to the general management of the Erie Railroad by its present directors, and resulted in the discovery of the certificates for 29,000 additional shares of stock, the property of HEATH and RAPHAEL. The proceedings will be continued this morning, and it is quite probable the entire property in litigation will be traced to its present possessors.

At 2 o'clock yesterday, the reference commenced, Mr. [illegible] representing HEATH and RAPHAEL, and Mr. MORGAN appearing on behalf of the Erie Railway Company.

The examination of [illegible], G. RALTON, President of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, was resumed by Mr. [illegible]:

Have you complied with the schedule of the stock certificates belonging to HEATH and RAPHAEL, which I have furnished you with the registry books of the Erie Railway Company and the stock-book kept by the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company?

Mr. MORGAN objected to the question on the ground that the books spoke for themselves, and would determine it, but the master overruled the objection.

I have compared the numbers presented to me with the schedule furnished me by you.

Q.—The numbers you [illegible] were furnished with as HEATH & RAPHAEL'S [illegible]? A.—I don't know that it is so; I have compared this list with the [illegible] since the [illegible].

Q.—Have you [illegible] against each of these numbers furnished you the number of the certificate on your register or not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, upon the schedule upon which, from the certificates, you have put marks to [illegible] certificates? A.—Yes.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD objected to now offer the paper for identification.

Mr. MORGAN objected it was unnecessary, as the book itself was already in evidence.

The master permitted the paper to be put on record.

Q.—Have you gone through the whole of this list? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where you have marked opposite the number the word "[illegible]" with the date, what does that indicate? A.—It indicates that that certificate was surrendered to [illegible] and canceled on that date; it shows the number of shares in that part of the lot of stock surrendered on that date, for which the same number of shares were issued to other parties.

Q.—Then upon this schedule you have marked [illegible] with the date, what in fact indicates, does it, that the certificates of those numbers have been [illegible] in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company? A.—The [illegible] issued in its place, as appears by the [illegible] of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

Q.—And the date shows when that was done? A.—That must be shown by the [illegible] register. I [illegible] extracts from the books being [illegible] stock was canceled and [illegible] other stock issued in its place, [illegible] what was done. Mr. RALSTON, in the [illegible] book from here? A.—It is now in the [illegible] have prepared, as directed by the [illegible] from certain numbers that were furnished [illegible] statement to show what became of this stock [illegible] those are the numbers.

Q.—And you are [illegible] to verify that by the register which is [illegible]?

Q.—Every [illegible] made in this schedule of the word "[illegible]" with the date is derived from your register? A.—Yes.

Q.—And the word "open," what does that [illegible] A.—That the certificate is still outstanding.

Q.—And that [illegible] been done with it so far as the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company is concerned?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Will you [illegible] book from which these [illegible] produce it; there are two other books [illegible]

Q.—[illegible] days on which these transactions occurred? A.—Dec. 28, 1870, Jan. 12, 1871, Jan. 14, [illegible] 1871, Dec. 20, 1870, Dec. 21, 1870, Nov. 16, [illegible] 1870, Dec. 28, 1869, (in regard to the latter Mr. SOUTHMAYD [illegible] it must be a mistake) Oct. 15, 1869, Dec. 27, 1870, Dec. 14, 1870, Oct. 12, 1869, and [illegible] 1870.

Q.—Please give [illegible] numbers of the certificates on this list which [illegible] to have been canceled on the 28th of December, 1869? A.—They are a [illegible] and I want them to be taken out of the case. They are not any of [illegible] certificates? A.—31,000 and 31,000.

Q.—Give the [illegible] of those canceled on the 12th of October, 1869, [illegible] December, 1869, and 4th of December, 1870? A.—[illegible] 113,627, 113,627 to 113,656, 120,722 to 120,732, [illegible] 113,627 to 113,641, 113,629 to 113,641, 14th of December, 1870, 113,641 to 113,645.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD—Is [illegible] list (a copy of which is handed to the witness,) is incorrect in two particulars, [illegible] certificates which are there called 81,000 should be 8,100 and 8,100, and that the certificate 113,624 to 113,634 should be 113,627 to 113,634 inclusive.

Q.—Please look at the register and see whether certificates 8,100 and [illegible] were canceled or not? A.—They were never [illegible] Farmers' Loan and Trust Company. [illegible] were never presented; they both [illegible] on our register.

Q.—What was the [illegible] of the certificate which upon your register [illegible] to be canceled on the 16th of August, 1870? A.—No. 101,256.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD—I [illegible] that number to be a mistake in the copy [illegible] to the witness by COLEMAN.

A lengthened [illegible] of the register was then made, from which it appeared that the 80,000 shares of the stock claimed by HEATH and RAPHAEL were canceled and reissued in various parties, including Jay Cooke & Co., [illegible] Alexander Smith & Co., E. Stockton, [illegible] Willard; Willard, Smith & Beach; [illegible] Willard & Co., S. J. Currie and E. S. Monroe.

Q.—Is that all the stock which was issued on these different dates, concerning which you have testified to, which was [illegible] by the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company? A.—It was.

Q.—And it could not have been registered or countersigned by you except upon the basis of the cancellation of these original genuine certificates that were the basis of the [illegible]? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that [illegible] the registration of these original genuine certificates that were the basis of the [illegible]? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Your stamp is [illegible] by your clerk, but you put on this round [illegible] yourself? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Can you tell how many shares there are of new stock issued? A.—I don't know.

Cross-examined by Mr. MORGAN—In your direct examination, you testified to the custom of trade with reference to bringing stock registered or otherwise; state what that custom is? A.—The Stock Exchange, by a resolution of its Governing Committee, determined that no stock should be [illegible] except it had no office of registry or transfer for general registration—in other words, the stock should be registered in some other office besides the office of its owner.

Q.—Is there any other custom except as arises under these resolutions? A.—I know of none other.

Q.—So there is no reason why stock not registered in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company should not be dealt with on the Stock Exchange? A.—I do not think the Stock Exchange regulates the custom of trade.

Q.—Does it? A.—It does.

Q.—Is that a private rule could not be made? A.—It would not be considered a good delivery any way, because the man could not negotiate his stock; for the reason that all companies [illegible] have transferred their new stock, have an [illegible] office of delivery, and they don't issue certificates of stock without making them perfect certificates by taking them through the necessary forms the Company has adopted.

Q.—Has all the stock of the Erie Railway Company, so far as contained in the books you have been, been through that process, and been stamped by you and been countersigned by the clerk? A.—All the stock that has been issued, I suppose, has been stamped.

Q.—Every [illegible] registered? A.—All have been registered, but have been issued since our Company became registers of stock.

Q.—You say you were employed by the Erie Railway Company to [illegible] stock. What was done at the time you were employed, what arrangement was made, and what was your custom of registering stock? A.—We could not register any stock unless it came directly through the Erie Railway Company.

Q.—Tell us [illegible] you put the certificate to? A.—It is compared with the original entry in the stock register, which is a book furnished us by the Erie Railway Company containing a correct copy of outstanding stock. We have nothing to do with the transfer of stock at all.

Q.—If a certificate for 60,000 shares of stock were presented to your Company with canceled certificates [illegible] in your registering, you would register 60,000 shares, would you not? A.—It would depend on whether the canceled certificates had once passed through our office or not. If they did not pass, and did not appear on our registry as canceled certificates, of course we would.

Q.—And it is not necessary that it should be the identical certificate that was presented at the Erie office upon transferring the stock there and for which a new certificate was issued? A.—Not at all. We have only to [illegible] as genuine stock after being presented by the Erie Railway Company.

Re-examined—When was your registry open? A.—About September or October, 1869.

Q.—You have [illegible] you don't register or certify any new stock except upon the basis of the cancellation of genuine existing certificates, and I understand you to say that a certificate which is presented for the cancellation of a new [illegible] and issue must be either a certificate which was issued and outstanding at the time when you opened your registry, and which, therefore, appears on the [illegible] Erie Railway Company furnished at that time, or if it be a certificate issued from this date it must have been previously countersigned and registered by you? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—A certificate issued subsequent to October, 1869, which has never been registered by you, does not form any basis for the issuing of new stock upon its cancellation? A.—Some stock has been issued since then.

Q.—It must either have been on the registry in October, 1869, or it must have formed part of the 68,000,000 issued after that, and which was also placed in your list? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—It must therefore be either on the original register furnished you by the Erie Railway office, or be part of the $5,000,000 subsequently issued and registered by you, or must be stock which since the opening of the registry has been heretofore countersigned and registered by you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Upon this state of facts, if certificates for 60,000 shares of stock belonging to HEATH and RAPHAEL were taken from their hands and put into the hands of JAMES R. COLEMAN for 29,000 shares, and [illegible] 60,000 shares which were put into COLEMAN'S hands, certificates for 29,000 had been canceled, and new certificates issued and registered in the way you have testified, and then if there should be brought about by the documents now in hands in relation to this transaction, namely, the original certificates for 29,000 which had been canceled and a new certificate issued to COLEMAN for 29,000 shares, and you were asked upon the basis of these papers to register the 60,000 shares issued to COLEMAN, what would you do in the matter?

Mr. MORGAN objected, and the question was waived.

Q.—As a matter of fact, do you know whether you can sell Erie stock unless registered by you—that is, if the certificate bears date since you were appointed Register? A.—I don't [illegible] to this point. It is worthless to be purchased by anybody [illegible].

This concluded the examination of the witness, and Mr. SOUTHMAYD asked for an order for the production before the master of the transfer-book on which these certificates to HEATH, WILLARD and others were issued; the stock certificate books from which they were issued, and the stock ledger, that they might test and see what basis these issues, which had taken place of this stock, were made on so far as the Erie Railway Company was concerned. He desired to see when these books showed in regard to these missing certificates, and why these new issues were made.

Mr. MORGAN—The proceedings [illegible] whole business of the concern.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD—They have given notice in the public prints that they intend to stop all transfer of stock during this investigation.

Mr. MORGAN asked for convenience sake that Mr. SOUTHMAYD would examine the books at the Erie Building.

Mr. SOUTHMAYD—That is not the place to hold Court. I would not go up there on any terms.

The master issued the order for the production of the books, in accordance with the application, and the investigation was adjourned.

THE COLD SPRING MURDER.

Preparations for the Trial of Trumbour—His Antecedents—Details of the Crime.

In accordance with a special proclamation, issued by Governor HOFFMAN in January, an extraordinary Court of Oyer and Terminer will be held for Putnam County, in the Court-house, at Carmel, on Monday morning next, to be presided over by Judge JOSEPH F. BARNARD. At this Court will be tried CHARLES TRUMBOUR, indicted for the murder of ELIJAH JONES at Cold Spring on the Hudson in August, 1870. The circumstances connected with this case are among the most romantic and thrilling in the annals of crime. TRUMBOUR is a young, well-built, comely looking fellow of pleasant address, and without any signs of a vicious temperament. His father is a well-to-do Columbia County farmer, living with a second wife, and apparently indifferent to the son's fate. The latter made his first appearance in Newburg during the Spring of 1870. He engaged at a printing office, not only in his business, but at his boarding-place, deported himself commendably, until he was induced to enter a disreputable den kept by a notorious fellow named CHARLEY SMITH. This was a resort of depraved characters of both sexes, and there he became fascinated with a young woman named KATE MOORE. He neglected his work, and rendered his boarding-house, (one of the best in the City,) frowned his respectable acquaintances and threw himself into a vortex of gambling and debauchery.

The Police and Vigilance Committee believe, from facts in their possession, that a number of confederates were engaged in the ensuing affair, and that they may have been a part of an extensive and regularly organized band of thieves, whose plundering forays along the Hudson River had baffled and worried the authorities for months. SMITH, the proprietor of the ranche, was subsequently indicted for keeping a disorderly house, and sent to the County Jail. WILLIAM CONROY, a notorious ruffian and thief, was a habitue of SMITH'S place, and is believed to have been the real author and instigator of the evil. It is certain that in that place TRUMBOUR was demented by dissipation, and transformed into a thieving assassin. His evil companions planned to rob the cashier of the Fishkill National Bank, on his return from a collecting tour, when he would probably have a large sum of money on his person. TRUMBOUR was to act as the high waywoman, and his fiendish companions supplied him with a loaded pistol, that he might get the coveted plunder at any cost—life or death.

Weeks before the murder all the parties visited the scene, dogged the cashier's footsteps, selected the place of attack, and the avenue of escape. On the fatal day, the cashier left the bank with his satchel containing some $20,000, and stepped upon the platform of the upward-bound train which was just moving; TRUMBOUR sprung upon the other platform, threw a handful of sand into the cashier's eyes, and snatching the satchel, escaped; the cashier blinded and in an agony, had sufficient self-possession to [illegible] his cash. Fortunately, a boy named Odell Odham who saw the transaction or heard the cry joined in. TRUMBOUR'S flight toward the river (where two accomplices, expert oarsmen, were waiting in a boat) being cut off, he dashed with desperate speed through the grounds of a gentleman's country-seat. The shouting crowd pressed hard upon him. On he went, leaped a fence and plunged into a dwelling-house; ELIJAH JONES, the coachman, rushed in after him, when TRUMBOUR quickly turned and fired; she wounded man fell, and lived but a few days. TRUMBOUR was immediately captured. Subsequently the bank erected a handsome monument over the remains of the coachman.

The confederate pirates escaped. TRUMBOUR narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the infuriated populace. CONROY was arrested, but after a long examination there was not sufficient technical evidence adduced to hold him as an accessory. Forthwith [illegible] society, he was convicted upon another charge in Orange County and sentenced to a term of three years in Sing Sing Prison, where he now is. SOMERS, one of the accom

WIFE BURNS WILL ESTATE.

In the matter of the application of Cornelia Burrowes.—This is an application by Mrs. Burrowes, the sister of the late William E. Burrowes, for an order of the Court directing the executor of deceased's estate, Ex-Judge Mitchell, to pay over for her use and that of her children, out of the estate, the sum of $10,000. The facts in relation to the petition of Mr. Burrowes are already familiar to the readers of the TIMES, but it becomes necessary to recall here a few of these facts, in order to make the necessity for this motion intelligible. The late Mr. Burrowes, a bachelor and childless, had been since 1862, and was at the time of his death, a partner in the firm of A. T. Stewart & Co., and had chief charge of the company's books. After his death, and Mr. Burrowes' interest found to be $715,000; $700,000 of which was paid to the executor. Subsequent to such payment, dispute arose as to a note of $10,000, found to be charged to the firm, but which also latter insisted should have been charged to the individual account of the deceased. This led to an inquiry into the books, which ...an examination of the firm's books back to 1862, which examination A. T. Stewart & Co. claim showed charges against the firm of sums of money amounting to $200,000, which properly should have been charged against Mr. Burrowes individually. Relying on this theory, A. T. Stewart & Co. commenced an action against the executor and heirs to recover back this amount from him, on which a short time since an order enjoining the executor from paying any future sums of money from the estate until the termination of the suit, unless by order of the Court. This suit was sent to Theron R. Strong, as referee, before whom it is still pending. Before the suit had been commenced nearly all the minor bequests had been paid by the executor, leaving the petitioner, Mrs. Burrowes, as the sole legatee of the residue of the estate. Since the commencement of the action $21,000 has been paid by the executor to the petitioner under various orders of the Court, and out of the balance, stated to be $90,000 cash on hand, the petitioner asks for $10,000 which she claims as necessary to her support, &c. She claims that although not an improper relation existed between Mr. Burrowes and her, she has suffered much in wounded feelings, at the reproach of her acquaintances, loss of time and perhaps loss of better offers, besides about $100 expended for clothes in anticipation of the approaching ceremony.

Verdict for plaintiff for $25.

Sales at the Stock Exchange—April 12.

FIRST BOARD.

SECOND BOARD.

WEDNESDAY, April 12—P. M.

The Wall-street markets today are buoyant on the Stock Exchange for the New-York and Western Railways at advancing prices, and firm, also, on the Railway Bonds and the Miscellaneous Stocks. They are tame for Gold and the Public Funds; steady at full rates on the Foreign Exchanges, and easy for Money at 6@7 ₱ cent. per annum. The great attraction of the Street is to the Railway speculation, including the Land Grant and Income Bonds of the Union Pacific Road, while the Gold Room was unusually dull, and speculation, as well as the regular trade business in Gold, seldom so dull as at present. A more stupid day in the Room, according to current report, has not been experienced by the Gold Brokers for some time past. The sales were chiefly at 110¼ ₱ cent. The sales of Bills on London, 109½@109⅝ ₱ cent. net.

The Treasury at 12 o'clock noon bought $2,000,000 of United States 5-20s at 109.69@109.89 ₱ cent. and accrued Gold Interest, on a gross offering of $1,119,000. After this results the 5-20s were a fraction easier in the open market. The difference between Gold and 5-20s as measured by the purchases of the latter by the Treasury is 1@1 ₱ cent. The sales of 5-20s of 1867 in the open market left on 1111@1112 ₱ cent., including accrued interest since Jan. 1.

At the Stock Exchange the Bulls in the New-York and Western Railway Stocks have everything their own way. The buying for a further rise is spirited and on a large scale, and the prevailing opinion of the Street would seem to be in favor of a higher market later in the season. The same feeling extends to some of the Railway Bonds, especially marked on the issues of the Union Pacific, the Land Grants advancing since yesterday forenoon, from ¾ to ⅞ ₱ cent. ex April coupon. The first mortgages of the same Company advanced to 85¼ ₱ cent., and the Central Pacific first mortgages rose to 90@90¼ ₱ cent. In the Miscellaneous Shares there was also a strong demand, but at rather lower figures for the Western Telegraph and the Maryland Coal Stocks. The Mariposa "fancies" were in favor at advancing prices.

In the Railway Stocks there was another advance in Ohio to 51@51¼ ₱ cent.; in Lake Shore to 102¾@103 ₱ cent.; in Cleveland and Pittsburg to 116; in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati to 90½; in St. Paul Common to 65@65¾; in North-west Preferred to 97½; in Union Pacific, with large sales, to 29½@⅝; in Toledo and Wabash to 62½ ₱ cent. The New-York Central Stock and Scrip were firm, on a moderate amount of business.

After the late Boards the following quotations were made in the Long Room of the Exchange and on Broad-street, in front of the Exchange. There was some abatement from the extreme rates of the day on part of the Railway list:

The Mark Lane Express of March 27 says:

"The past week has been a golden time for farmers in every respect. To thrash samples has been easier work and better paid; while the plow, the harrow, and the dibbler have been ready work and every kind of field-labor, the days of bank Marys, in the middle of April, by continued sunshine. In fact, we shall soon be looking for genial showers to bring up the seed which the late sight-frosts kept from germinating. The meadows already give a short bite to cattle, but the want of fodder is severely felt, and it would be no slight calamity to have a second backward spring. This remark in this country seems generally to have stood the change well, but complaints of mildew, and rather increase, from France and Belgium, and unless a very favorable seed-time helps those who have been forced to sow Spring Wheat, the European harvest seems likely to be small. The most cautious of Paris merchants, distrustful man's minds, as if there were not mischief enough done to the fine fields of Northern France, and there seems no telling whether another Prussian occupation may not be necessary to bring order out of the present chaos, at least in the capital. In the meantime, in spite of the greatest caution on the part of millers, and with almost no speculation, prices keep moving upward. Country is better going beyond London in their claims, so that Liverpool is to record an advance generally of 1s. on a quarter, and more than this has been noted in Belgium and Germany. Thus, the opening of the Baltic seems likely to make little or no difference in the value of Wheat, prices here being in many cases dearer than the shipping ports. Those of the Black Sea, on the contrary, not likely to throw away their opportunities, and New-York, generally shut up till May, has never been slow to follow suit. The monetary difficulty, however, may make a slow process of the upward movement; but any serious disasters to the new crop would soon pass that barrier, and bring back higher prices than have been paid for some time past. Nothing can be cheaper than this moment, immediately after the dearest Christmas, and the only crop in the world to fall back upon to be the new crop of American Wheat, old being already close upon the price of Beans and Peas. The arrivals of the past week into 150 ports of the Kingdom were 70,000 quarters of Wheat and 151,000 cwt. Flour, against 56,971 quarters at 41s. 9d. in 1870. The London averages were 57s. 5d. on 2,154 quarters. The imports into the Kingdom for the week ending 16th ult. were 111,681 cwt. Wheat and 151,393 cwt. Flour.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

HARVEY FISK. A. S. HATCH.

☞ FISK & HATCH,

BANKERS AND DEALERS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

No. 5 Nassau-st., New-York, April 4, 1871.

Holders of Five-twenty Bonds must shortly decide between an even exchange for Government Bonds bearing five, four and one-half, or four per cent. interest, and some other form of investment, in which the present premium on their Five-twenties may be saved, and their rate of interest remain unimpaired.

Safe and reliable six per cent. Securities, in which investors can feel confidence, must be largely sought after, and materially advance in market value, as it becomes apparent that the Five-twenties cannot be relied upon to run much longer at six per cent., and that hereafter Government Bonds cannot be expected to yield more than about four per cent. per annum on their cost.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC GOLD BONDS are among the most desirable six per cent. securities in the market.

They are amply secured, well known, and of established credit in all the principal money markets of the world, and are regularly quoted and dealt in at the Stock Exchanges of New-York, Amsterdam, Frankfort, Berlin and London, and are as readily salable in large or small amounts, at any time, at quoted market rates, as are Government bonds.

The earnings of the Central Pacific Railroad Company in 1870 were nearly $8,000,000, and the increase for January and February of this year indicate that the earnings for 1871 will not be less than from $10,000,000 to $13,000,000, with a net profit of not less than $5,000,000, while the interest liabilities of the Company are less than $2,000,000 per annum.

We deal in these bonds, and buy and sell them at current market rates, and believe them to be as absolutely safe as any investment can be.

They can now be had in exchange for Five-twenties at a profit of about fifteen per cent. This profit may be realized, and six per cent. Gold interest continued with entire safety.

☞ UNION PACIFIC LAND-GRANT BONDS.

OFFICE OF MORTON, BLISS & CO., BANKERS, NEW-YORK, March 30, 1871.

The undersigned offer for sale the balance of the land-grant bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. The road has been in operation about twenty months. It is complete in all respects, and its earnings have averaged $6,000,000 per annum. These bonds bear seven per cent. interest, coupons payable April and October. They are receivable at par, in payment for the Company's lands. The total amount of lands to which the Company is entitled under grant from Government is 13,000,000 acres. The total amount of land grant bonds issued is $10,400,000. The land sales have already been 392,339 acres, at an average price of $4 45 per acre. The remaining 11,797,417 acres, at an average valuation of but $2 per acre, are worth $23,574,834. With the proceeds of lands sold the Company have retired $780,000 bonds, and will continue to retire bonds as rapidly as lands are marketed. Col. Thomas A. Scott, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Company, and President of this Company, estimated the net earnings for the ensuing year at $4,500,000, (exclusive of the land department,) to be applied to interest and dividends. He says that "this result cannot but be deemed, by all practically versed in the history of new railway lines, as indicating a successful future."

NEW LOAN OF UNITED STATES.

The subscriptions to the New Five Per Cent Stock at the United States now amount to nearly $60,000,000. They are confidently expected to reach $200,000,000 by the time the New Bonds are ready for delivery in May. The proposals of the Secretary of the Treasury will then be changed to the following programme:

First—Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Second—Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four and a half per cent. per annum.

Third—Bonds to the amount of seven hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

The choice to the loan will have preference, after the above-described five hundred millions are taken up, in the following order, namely:

First—Subscriptions for equal amounts of each class of bonds.

Second—Subscriptions for either five per cent. bonds or five and a half per cent. bonds separately.

Third—Subscriptions for any five per cent. bonds that may not be subscribed for in the preceding classes.

Subscriptions to the remainder of the $200,000,000 of five per cents, which are unconditional, are now going on, and the bonds will soon be issued to subscribers, who can receive a scrip certificate, in advance, if they desire to pay their gold or exchange their United States 5-20s at once, in the Registered or Coupon form. Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000; and coupon bonds of each denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States, at the office of the Treasurer, any Assistant Treasurer, or designated Depositary of the Government, quarterly, on the first days of February, May, August and November, in each year.

The bonds of the several classes aforesaid, and the interest thereon, are exempt from the payment of all taxes or dues of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

At maturity, the bonds last issued will be first redeemed; those first numbered in each may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Extensive subscriptions have already been made through the following New-York City banks and bankers:

☞ TANNER & CO., BANKERS, NO. 11 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK,

Financial Agents for the sale of the First Mortgage Bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company.

The total issue of these Bonds is $1,500,000 on 142 miles of road completed and now in operation, which is at the rate of $10,500 per mile.

The gross earnings of this road are now exceeding its present operating expenses and the interest on its bonded debt.

These Bonds are therefore a first-class investment, and must soon advance in price, as but a limited amount now remain unsold.

We recommend the Securities with perfect satisfaction.

Price 97½ and accrued interest.

Circulars, maps, pamphlets, &c., furnished.

TANNER & CO.,
No. 11 Wall-st., New-York City.

☞ BURLINGTON, CEDAR RAPIDS AND MINNESOTA RAILWAY.—The completion of this Road has given to its First Mortgage Seven Per Cent Gold Bonds an established character equal to any mortgage issue dealt in at the Stock Exchange. We are prepared to buy and sell these bonds, at any time, at our banking-house, at market price—thus placing them on the same basis, for temporary or permanent investment, with Governments or any other security.

These bonds are a first and only mortgage of $20,000 per mile, loaned on a railroad that has cost $60,000, and which commands, without competition, all the traffic of Northern Iowa and Southern Minnesota—shortening the distance from St. Paul to Chicago 45 miles, and to St. Louis more than 90 miles.

The net earnings are already largely in excess of interest on the bonds, and no doubt exists that they will more than double within the ensuing year.

A contract has been secured with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company obligating the latter to invest 50 per cent. of gross earnings derived from traffic with the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota Road in the bonds of the Company. This arrangement makes a practical consolidation of the two roads, and establishes a large sinking fund for the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota Bonds.

The convertibility privilege in these bonds enables them to be exchanged for stock, at par, at any time. This secures to the holder, at his option, a share in any excess of earnings over the interest obligation.

An earnings of Government securities for these bonds returns 9¼ per cent. interest, instead of 5 per cent., which is all the Governments pay at present price, besides leaving an immediate gain of about 10 per cent. in price for reinvestment.

The subscription price of the bonds is 90, and accrued interest in currency.

All marketable securities taken in exchange, free of commission and express charges.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

Cannonading is still kept up about Paris, but with no definite results. The Communist authorities announce that their losses have been light and those of the Government forces heavy in the recent fighting. Placards favoring conciliatory measures have been destroyed, and the women have been called upon to organize for the defense of Paris. There is a report that the Communists have lost the park of Issy, and that the Commander of Fort d'Issy has been shot by his own men.....French prisoners are leaving Germany at the rate of 1,000 a day..... NAPOLEON is ill at Chiselhurst.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. SUMNER'S resolution in favor of a reduction of taxes was adopted. The debate on the Ku-Klux bill was then proceeded with, but no vote was reached.

In the House petitions were presented for the repeal of the Income tax, and a bill was introduced laying restrictions on the importation of laborers from China and other oriental countries. The consideration of the Deficiency bill was continued, and various amendments were disposed of, but the bill itself was not acted on. Before adjournment, the Committees on Rules and on Public Buildings were announced.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, business was wholly confined to the passage and reporting of standing bills, in view of an early adjournment. The principal business of the Assembly, in its morning, afternoon and evening sessions, was also the passage of bills lying on the Speaker's table. The Appropriation bill was suddenly sprung on the House after a preconcerted delay, and by a decided vote pushed through, item by item. There is every probability that adjournment will take place this week.

Which Party Can the People Trust?

The able writer whose political articles in Harper's Weekly have long rendered that journal a power in the land, describes in a few words the present position of the Republican Party and the Administration. The people, he says, have "perfect faith in the honesty of the Administration," they listen attentively to criticisms upon it, but they will "insist that Republican criticisms of our own party shall be friendly, and not helpful to the common enemy; for it is only by friendly criticism that the party volley is made truly wise." The principle here laid down is one to which very few will object. It places at once in their proper aspect those "criticisms" upon the Administration, which are evidently based upon mere malicious and personal hostility toward the President. The abusive attacks made by some of the President's enemies probably do him more good than harm, for in many cases their motive is well understood, and in all cases they tend to disgust people, and to produce a reaction in the President's favor. If the Administration will place itself in advance of the nation, and identify itself with those measures which are clearly seen to be necessary, wild scurrility will be powerless to injure it. As for those criticisms which are founded upon a supposed foreknowledge of events, or the faculty of shifting with every change of the wind, no intelligent person ever paid the least attention to them. In one quarter President GRANT is constantly advised to be like JACKSON, and swear "by the Eternal" to put down opposition. Yet, whenever he shows any signs of independence, this same journal comes out and tells him that he is a failure, and pathetically casts him off. Perhaps it might be deemed offensive to call this kind of criticism imbecile, and it answers every purpose to describe it as compounded of an equal mixture of foolishness and dishonesty.

But, whatever differences of opinion may exist now or at any future time about the Administration, we hope there can be none in the minds of the people with regard to the necessity of keeping the Republican Party in power. The country has as much need of that now as ever it had. It is still a party which aims at the attainment of lofty ends, and which is better capable than any other party of sustaining the honor and advancing the prosperity of the country. We are not yet quite clear of the stormy waters raised by the rebellion, and it would be dangerous to discard the organization which alone prevented the collapse of the United States a few years ago. People who think that the South has forgiven and forgotten its defeats have conjured up for themselves a fool's Paradise. The ugly fact is before us that communities which have staked everything on a war and lost, seldom forget what they regard as their wrongs. No man supposes that France will abide by one decision in the struggle which she provoked. The Southern Press constantly expresses the hope that the day will come when the "lost cause" will triumph. The belief of nine-tenths of the people is, that their children will never rest satisfied until an attempt has been made to retrieve the fortunes of the Confederacy. These sentiments may gradually die out, but if the Democracy is restored to power, they will be far more likely to acquire a sudden strength which will alarm all classes of the people, and convince them when too late that permanent security was to be obtained under Republican rule alone. The happiest day which all discontented spirits at the South have seen for some years would be that on which a Democratic President was sent to Washington. The murmurs which we hear now would instantly be exchanged for something much more formidable, and the Democrats as a party would be untrue to their history if they did not stand by the South at such a crisis rather than by the North.

Republican leaders are naturally divided in opinion with regard to the measures which ought to be adopted for quelling disaffection at the South. Harper's Weekly, the Tribune, and other journals, ask for general amnesty. On the other hand, Mr. WENDELL PHILLIPS—with whom many will agree on such a question as this—calls this demand "one more outgrowth of that coward and blundering anxiety for party success which has poisoned the whole reconstruction policy. Whoever supports it helps to dig the grave of the Republican Party, and possibly of the Union itself." But the most powerful argument on Mr. PHILLIPS' side is supplied by JEFFERSON DAVIS and Southern journals. It certainly seems a great deal to ask that the "President" of the ex-Confederacy should be instantly rendered eligible to be sent back to the United States Senate—as he unquestionably would be if all political disabilities were abolished. It is only the other day that Mr. DAVIS declared that "State sovereignty"—and we have terrible reasons for knowing what he means by that—"although defeated in the late struggle, will ultimately triumph." The Southern people, he also said at Selma, "had sent forth their sons to battle for their rights as States." He himself "never had asked pardon for what he had done, and he never would, for he felt that he had done no wrong." Would the people who fought against secession be once more willing to have such sentiments as these proclaimed in the United States Senate? The fact is that Mr. HALE'S recent amnesty bill goes as far as common prudence warrants. It would exclude JEFF. DAVIS and others of his class from political power, but it would deal in the most generous manner with the vast majority of the Southern people. There is such a thing as being too magnanimous to enemies who still cherish their enmity toward us, and are only anxious to find another opportunity of flying at our throats. But this question, like all others, is far safer in the hands of the Republicans than it would be in the hands of Democrats. Intrust it to Democratic treatment, and the South would be aflame in less than three months. To return, then, to what we said at first, it is quite clear that no prejudices which are entertained in any quarter toward the Administration ought to extend to the Republican Party. Men come and go, but the principles of the Republican organization will assuredly endure, unless some great disaster is yet in store for the country.

A Balance to the Irish Vote.

No procession, we believe, that ever passed through the streets of New-York made so deep an impression on a public rather tired of shows, as did the German procession on the Peace Celebration. Every one was involuntarily contrasting it with the dull march of Irish laborers in black coats, diversified only by pugilistic encounters and drunken rows, which we had lately been compelled to witness on St. Patrick's Day, or with the rowdy and villainous battalions which welcomed the "Fenian martyrs." To the eyes of most orderly citizens, these Irish celebrations seem to bring to the surface the ignorant and dangerous proletaires, whom we seldom see, but who govern the City. Here, however, it was a relief to the patriotic observer to note what a vast and stalwart throng of respectable working men and small shopkeepers lie concealed usually in the German quarters. Such an army of decent, cheerful, social, and yet sober and intelligent-looking laborers, mechanics and tradesmen, never marched through our streets. Every one was happy, even hilarious, and yet no one drunk. New-York seemed to have put off its earnest American aspect, or its rowdy Irish expression, and to wear a look of broad, healthy, German merriment. There was no disturbance or violent conduct among the hundred thousand Teutons, and only one scrimmage, when some of the sons of St. Patrick undertook to interfere with their enjoyments.

There was an instructive lesson to our whole people, in a day so cheerful and jolly, and yet so free from quarrels or intoxication. Innumerable casks of lager must have been emptied, but the stalwart Deutscher never wavered in their steady march of ten miles under a hot sun, or showed any unpleasant effects of their potations. We trust, too, that all future organizers of processions and festivities in this City will take a lesson from this Teutonic celebration in producing some artistic and varied effect in their shows. Here the one idea of an endless line of black coats, interspersed with bands of music, which hitherto was supposed alone to constitute a "procession," was abandoned, and every conceivable variation introduced. Nothing prettier in scenic effect ever passed through our avenues.

But, in regarding that mighty mass of German humanity in our streets on Easter Monday, the question must have come up to many an American, "Why cannot the party of progress in this City have the aid of that great multitude in the struggle for a purer municipal government?" One half of that immense army of working men, voting on the right side, would redeem this City for a generation from the rabble that now oppress and plunder it. The Germans of New-York have little to do with the jobs of our rulers, nor do they share much of the plunder. They are accustomed to honest business, and an economical government. They live by industry—not by place-hunting. Wherever ideas move them at all, it is on the side of human liberty and progress, and in favor of those "causes" which the Democratic Party have always opposed. They belong by nature and education to our national progressive party—the Republican—and to the State party, which is fighting the "Ring." Why are they not secured for this? Why do they, in such large numbers, vote for the party of reaction and corruption?

The answer, we believe, is to be found in the want of tact and organization of the Republican Party of this State. They have never made a systematic effort to win the Germans. They have never cultivated and suitably honored their leaders. They have ignored their prejudices, and forgotten their services. Indiscreet Republicans have attempted to make the party "a cold-water party," and have sacrificed the German vote for an impracticable idea. The Republican Party of this State ought to cut itself entirely free from the total abstinence faction, and reorganize with the purpose of securing a strong German wing. Twenty thousand German votes in this City would give the party of intelligence and honesty entire control of the City administration, its finances, police, judiciary, and parks, and would enable the Republicans to hold the Legislature and the State offices. German-Americans saved Missouri to the Union in the Civil War; they have put it now in the most advanced ranks of the Republican Party. There is no reason why the same nationality should not here form the balance to the ignorant Irish vote, and secure to New-York City a permanent and pure municipal Government, and place the State securely on the Republican side.

Mr. David Dudley Field and Mis Associates.

The Bar Association is a club. It was formed by gentlemen of the Bar, principally in this City, for their own purposes of social intercourse. These gentlemen decide whom they shall admit as members, and they have also the right to expel members who have already been admitted. As to this right of expulsion, and its use, they alone are the judges. These matters have just now special interest. It is pretty generally understood that certain "persons," members of the New-York Bar, intend to bring charges of professional misconduct against Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD, and to ask that he be expelled from the Bar Association. The New-York World feels constrained to come forward and urge that on a hearing of such charges, if any be made, Mr. FIELD shall be tried on precisely the same evidence, and no other, which would be admitted against him in a Court of law. Every one knows perfectly well that the principal witnesses regarding Mr. FIELD'S conduct are Mr. FIELD'S partners, and friends, and clients. The World evidently thinks, and Mr. FIELD possibly thinks, that the limitation they suggest with regard to the evidence to be admitted would secure Mr. FIELD'S acquittal, and therefore they urge their point with great pertinacity.

Now, what is the true state of the case? An illustration may be useful. Suppose you, the reader, have in some way admitted to your house a respectably-dressed person, on what, at the time, you supposed to be sufficiently good introduction. This respectably-dressed person turns out afterward to be a very different man from what you imagined. Probably you proceed to get rid of this acquaintance. The World, at this interesting moment, steps in and says: "My dear sir, don't turn that gentleman down-stairs—you have your doubts about him, to be sure, but get his friends, and examine them on oath. You are really bound to keep him in your house until you have local evidence that he is unfit for your society." Probably the suggestion would not receive much consideration.

Now, here is Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD, who is a member of the Bar Association. It has been very clearly shown that Mr. FIELD and his firm use a Judge's orders granted without any evidence, for the purpose of misappropriating stock, and hindering gentlemen from voting at corporation meetings on stock which they own. It is clearly shown that Mr. FIELD and his clients adopt expedients to keep gentlemen from voting at their own corporation elections. Mr. FIELD himself has actually placed himself at the head of a mob engaged in this work. It is clearly shown that Mr. FIELD indulges in the peculiarly gentle and courteous practice of arresting his brethren of the Bar, at the moment when their clients especially need their services. Another little peculiarity of professional conduct on his part consists in his tying the hands of a brother lawyer who chances to be opposed to him, with one of Judge BARNARD'S stays of proceedings, until just before trial, and then force him to trial before Judge BARNARD himself. His office gets writs, by telegraph, without evidence. He uses these writs. He and his office use orders that no one can ever find—granted no one knows where.

These eccentricities of Mr. FIELD'S practice excite on the part of his professional brethren much thought and comment. Those of them who are engaged in cases opposed to his clients wonder when their turn will come to be arrested on their way to Court. Others think that a man who practices law in this way ought not to belong to the Bar Association. And Mr. FIELD does not refute the substantial charges made against him. To be sure, he says he has been guilty of no unprofessional conduct. But not one of the "facts" setting forth his unprofessional conduct—which "facts" he clamored so lustily for till they were given to him—has he been able to disprove. This is what Mr. FIELD says: "I had some one hold my professional colleagues by the throat, and tie their hands, while my clients were taking their property out of their pockets. But we were not taking a watch or a pocket-book. We were taking a railroad. And did you notice who it was that held them by the throat for us? Why, it was a very worthy Judge, a friend of mine. And did you see what kind of a rope he used? Why, it was a writ of the Supreme Court of the State of New-York."

The members of the Bar Association are uneasy at having such a companion in their midst. They wish to get rid of him. And then comes forward the New-York World, and tells these gentlemen that they should proceed only on legal testimony—that they must have the same evidence before them that a Court would require. Doubtless such evidence can be given, even without the compulsory process of a Court. Most of the matters charged against Mr. FIELD are matters of public record, and do not merely rest in the insecure depository of his and his clients' memories. Doubtless, too, these gentlemen who make charges against Mr. FIELD will be quite content to use legal testimony, and nothing else, provided Mr. Field will compel his clients and partners to give the testimony. But it might be beyond even the power of Mr. FIELD to bring these witnesses forward, or induce them to tell the truth. It will be time for Mr. FIELD and his friends to insist on the production of strictly legal evidence whenever the case comes under the jurisdiction of a criminal Court. Then there would be compulsory process to procure all the legal evidence he might desire, both for him and against him. But is it a candid course for him to demand it now? Gen. BARLOW and the other gentlemen who have stated "facts" for Mr. FIELD'S gratification say that these "facts" are proved by the sworn testimony of Mr. FIELD'S clients, partners, and associate counsel, who were produced as witnesses by Mr. FIELD himself on a trial in a Court of law. Does Mr. FIELD disbelieve these witnesses? And as for the Bar Association, if they do not deal in a decided manner with Mr. FIELD, they may as well give up at once their dreams of purifying the Bench and the Bar, take Mr. FIELD to their bosoms, and lie quietly down together in the harmony of the golden age.

The Unemployed Poor.

The best way of disposing of the surplus population of cities has always been a difficult problem for economists to solve. One course always open is a mere change of locality. In the South and West there are millions of unoccupied acres, which, under proper cultivation, would support comfortably the unoccupied population of cities, and increase the wealth of the country. Those who are now helping to consume the surplus agricultural products would, by becoming producers, not only support themselves, but contribute to the support of others. But there are many obstacles in the way of emigration, and the scheme, though a promising one, must fall unless these obstacles can be overcome.

The advice to "go out West" is easily given, but how is the poor man to profit by it? A considerable sum of money is necessary to pay the railroad and stage fare of himself and family, and the cost of freight on such articles of household furniture as are absolutely necessary. Again, what is he to do when he gets out West? Work on a farm, we are told. But whose farm? Labor is all he has to sell. Is it in demand in the unsettled West? Not always or everywhere; the emigrant must be his own employer, and work his own farm. Land is cheap; a hundred acres can be purchased for as many dollars. But where is the money to come from with which to purchase the farm, stock it, buy implements for tilling it, and lumber for a house and barns? To reach the land, purchase it, stock it, build the necessary buildings, and buy the implements with which to put in and harvest the crops, and raise a supply of food to last until the first crop is marketable,—all this calls for an amount of capital which very few, if any, of the unemployed classes in large cities possess.

The surplus population of the large cities consists in a great degree of foreign emigrants, who reached this country too poor to go further. The only capital possessed by them was their labor, and this they were forced to sell immediately to procure subsistence. They found the labor market of the cities overstocked, and the price received by them was hardly sufficient to purchase food and shelter for themselves and families. The condition of most of them continues as at their first landing. With the end of each year the last dollar is reached, and the new year opens with no better prospects than the last. Emigrants who arrived in this country possessing any money capital, went West, and are now owning farms yielding a comfortable livelihood, and in most instances something more. Most of those who compose the surplus population would gladly exchange, if they could, the filth and discomfort of a tenement-house for the cleanliness and comfort of a cottage and farm. The advocates of emigration may assert that these objections are applicable only to heads of families—single men can go. The proceeds of their labor is all their own—there are none to share it with them. But even this class must first earn, in an overstocked labor market, a considerable sum in order that they may make a start. Emigration agents from the South and West hold up before the eyes of the unemployed of cities a dazzling array of facts and figures. They are convinced that in these sections, could they but reach them with sufficient money to buy and stock a farm, ease and competency after a few years of labor would be theirs, and their children would start on the journey of life under promising circumstances. But until they get some money, they cannot turn to account this opportunity of bettering their condition. The Homestead laws have for years offered equal, if not superior advantages, but they were beyond reach of the poor. Habits of economy would doubtless help many to reach a state of independence. But when a man is "out of work," and all his means are gone, what is he to do? Is it of any use to tell him to "go West?"

Our Public School Teachers.

The investigation now being held before the Committee on Teachers of the Board of Education, in regard to the alleged misconduct of the Principal of Grammar School No. 81, suggests a partial explanation of the juvenile vice that runs riot in our City. Childhood is as imitative as Mr. DARWIN himself could desire, and its tendency is usually to copy the failings rather than the virtues of its instructors. And if the Principal of Grammar School No. 81, as he appears in the testimony taken before the Committee, is a fair sample of the class of men intrusted with the education of children in the Metropolis, these latter have certainly no lack of opportunity to study the depravity which is to fit them for worthy successors to our present rulers. The witnesses examined were, with one exception, female teachers in the school, and their evidence was unanimous in support of the charges. All of them saw the Principal repeatedly under the influence of liquor, and to most of them, at such times, he had been abusive, as well as cruel to the pupils. One witness "had heard him use indecent language to the teachers frequently," and another testified that for three years he had not visited or examined her class. According to another of these ladies, his taste for strong drink was notorious among the pupils, and one of them was heard to remark, with that classic elegance of phrase which such influences would naturally cultivate, that his excellent preceptor was "lushy"—Anglice, drunk. The sort of discipline that could be enforced by a master such as is here described may be imagined, and it is not surprising to learn that the "boys were noisy, and to some extent uncontrollable." So much for their morals; the extent to which their intellectual education prospered may be inferred from the choice specimen given above of the bad grammar which seems to have been the dialect of the school.

Now it is possible, of course, that these charges may be the offspring of malice or mistake, and that the Principal of Grammar School No. 81 may be an admirable master and a deeply injured man. The City Superintendent, the Chairman of the Ward Board of School Trustees, and the four teachers who have testified adversely, may be wrong in their suspicions, or prejudiced in their statements. Indeed, one of the teachers committed herself to unfitness for her position by admitting that she had struck a pupil on the nose so as to make it bleed. She added, however, that this summary mode of discipline was approved by the Principal. Moreover, the defense produced numerous affidavits of teachers who had formerly taught in the school, of a policeman who had been detailed in its vicinity, of the janitor of the building, and of another Ward Trustee, all of whom spoke in the highest terms of the defendant, and had never seen him under the influence of liquor. It is fair, therefore, to give the accused the benefit of the doubt, until the verdict of the Committee is rendered. But whether true or false, the fact that such charges could be brought at all suggests some very disagreeable possibilities with regard to the moral and intellectual status of the teachers in our public schools. Apparently, there is no guarantee for their fitness, except the friendship of the school officer who procures their appointment. What sort of person that authority is apt to be, and how well qualified to judge in the premises, our readers may guess from the acrobat dram-sellers and brilliant stable men whom they see high in other places of public trust. The peculiar sort of influence to which these local Solons are most amenable may likewise be inferred from the fact that one of them was not long since expelled for selling the places in his gift, and another has still more recently been charged with the same offense. Under these circumstances, we ought not to wonder if our public school children are not all models of deportment and learning, or that they sometimes talk the language of the slums, or get drunk and stab each other on occasion. But it might be well if we took these things to heart, and asked ourselves what will be the end of our City if the education of its young is given up to the irresponsible hands that now control and misdirect it.

MINOR TOPICS

"War on the Rio Grande" is too startling an announcement to be implicitly received on the strength of the somewhat incoherent dispatch which conveys it. Austin City, Travis County, Texas, whence the dispatch to the Galveston News was sent, is at least 200 miles from the alleged scene of conflict. It is, to be sure, the converging point of the mail routes that skirt the frontier dividing El Paso from Mexico, and is therefore the natural place for the receipt of news from the western section of Texas. But news of this kind is extremely hasty, especially after traveling so far, to be very considerably exaggerated. The most we can say is, that there may have been some difficulty on the frontier about the disposal of certain offending Indians. That there was, as alleged by the dispatch, first, a murder in Mexican territory of United States citizens by a band of Indians; then a violation of the frontier by Mexican soldiers for the purpose of punishing the red men; and finally, a conflict, in which forty United States troops and their commander were slain in protecting the Indians, is, on the face of it, an exceedingly improbable assemblage of events. Before wasting speculation upon the subject, it is desirable to await the receipt of the official advices, which the War Department has not yet received, but which, if the story has any foundation in truth, ought to be immediately forthcoming.

Yesterday a terrible conflict was being waged for the possession of Paris. On south and west and north-west the Versailles troops and the insurgents were contending at the very gates of the capital, with the future of France hanging on the result of the struggle. The Communists are fighting with all the energy of desperation. The reported shooting of the commandant of the fort of Issy by his own men, is but the beginning of the atrocities that will follow the defeat of the rebels. Frenchmen of all ranks have got an inveterate habit of scattering want of success to treachery; and by the time the men of Belleville are fairly driven to say, we may expect to see numerous examples of the old historical incident—the cannibalism devouring its own children. Meanwhile, the panacea for pillaging churches seems to be on the increase. The rabble in power are evidently incompetent to restrain the excesses of the rabble that awaits the opportunity for plunder, and every well-disposed citizen left in Paris must by this time be disposed to welcome relief, even from a new German occupation.

Mr. NAST continues in Harper's Weekly and elsewhere his pictorial crusade against the Ring. In the current number of Harper's there is a spirited little sketch from his unwearied pencil, giving a new reading of the poor Prince Imperial's "baptism of fire." In this instance TWEED is Emperor, and stands with his back to sundry exploding shells, among which are "the political reform meeting" and "the Press that can't be bought." Several well-known fellow-conspirators against the public welfare are flying pale-strikers, or lying prostrate around him. Gov. HOFFMAN is the Prince Imperial, standing in an attitude betraying considerable trepidation in front of the burly form of his political parent. His favorite wooden hobby-horse of the Presidentship is overturned beside him, and the ingenuous youth seems exceedingly anxious to be well out of the row. Pictorial satire of the kind produced by Mr. NAST will be recognized as a powerful auxiliary by every friend of reform. Why does not Mr. NAST republish his drawings in a collected form? Surely there are publishers to be found enterprising enough to produce a work which would throw no little light on the political history of the last few years.

The Republicans in the Assembly would act wisely in making a caucus question of all bills amending our Registry or Election laws. They are clearly party measures, and should be treated with the utmost care and deliberation. We cannot say that the Republicans have done so well as they might have done this session, but if they now stand firm, and reject the overtures of Tweed's agents, much may be forgiven. Nothing has thrown our new rulers a thousandth part so much out of favor with the Democracy as their attempt to carry, by the votes of their Tammany masters, the bill which has thereby been rendered infamous. The defensive security of the minorities lately made, as a heavenly relief on by the Evening Post and other journals, is clearly shown to be no security at all. In fact, under what professes to be a scheme of two per cent taxation, we can be plundered to a perfectly indefinite extent, and the mode of doing it can be so completely covered up, that we shall not have the satisfaction of having even a hint given into what particular channels the plunder has been directed.

JAMES FISK, Jr., has met with a rebuff in Boston. He was very anxious to take his regiment to that city on the 17th of June, and sent to the authorities there to know what preparations they would make for his reception. His letter was submitted to the Aldermen of Boston, and contemptuously "laid upon the table." A swindler is not thought worthy of civic honors in Boston, even though he does call himself a "Colonel."

The Board of Health returns, relating to small-pox, are, for the first time in many months, of a satisfactory character. For the week ending Saturday last, the number of new cases is 78, showing a decrease of 21 on those of the previous week. The decline of the mortality from it to 10 is still more encouraging feature, being proportionally much greater than the reduction in prevalence of the last fortnight. It is well that the people should bear in mind that this has commenced coincidently with the opening of increased accommodations at the Small-pox Hospital, and with the employment of better nurses of unimpeaching patients. It is to be hoped that the Board of Health will profit by the experience of the epidemic now steadily declining, and on any future occasion when preventive measures are needed, put them in force a little earlier.

Additional protests are still being made against the acceptance of the City grant by the Trustees of the Baptist Indian Home. Upward of eighty members of the Ladies' Home Society itself, have issued, over their signatures, a document very strongly condemning the act in question. They "hold the acceptance injurious, because, as a warrant, it will be quoted to shield huge misappropriations in the past; and baleful, because, as a precedent, it is sure to be pleaded for continuous and even augmented largesses and endowments in the future." The Baptist Union of Cleveland, Ohio, has unanimously adopted and ordered to be published, the report of a Committee who express sentiments of a similar character. They "believe that the reasons which actuated the Society in the end are insufficient, unsound, and utterly illusory," and they stigmatize it as "abhorrent to the conscience of the denomination." If the remonstrance of the Ladies' Home can withstand the multiplied appeals that have been made to them to restore their ill-gained gift to the corrupt divers, they will earn for themselves a very unenviable notoriety within as well as outside of the Baptist denomination.

Municipal elections held thus far, with the exception of the State of Missouri, show solid gains for the Republican Party. Cities heretofore strongly Democratic have elected Republican Mayors and other officers. A large gain has been made in this State in Supervisors. The people at large are beginning to understand the true meaning of the rule of the New-York "Ring," and its bearing upon the future of Democratic rule. Tammany, in grasping for power, has overreached itself, and totters to its fall.

The Legislature has passed its constitutional limit, and in the few days now to pass before adjournment, the Ring have their last chance of exercising almost absolute power at Albany. The issues of the session are too deeply graven on the public mind to permit the possibility of another Assembly even being found so obedient to the rule of Tweed. Already the sanity Democrats, whom the Irving outrage rudely awakened from their indifference to the doings of the New-York delegation, are showing signs of insubordination. Whether, as our correspondent supposes, a successful attempt will be made to save the Tax Levy bill, with certain amendments or not, the Ring will have every reason to be thankful for the opportunities of plunder which the Legislature of 1870-71 has afforded them. The Canal bill and the Astoria Railroad, not to mention countless minor schemes for depleting the public purse to fill out of Tammany, are measures which ought to content even the "unbounded stomach" of Tweed, and which can only be opposed from a degree of public temper that will richly deserve to be attended by swindles still more gigantic.

WASHINGTON.

Prospect of a Speedy Disposal of the Ku-Klux Bill.

Little Chance for the Amnesty Act—Further Postponement of the Legal-Tender Cases—More Debate on the Deficiencies—Jobson's Trials.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The hearing of the Legal-tender cases, which was set down for to-day, was again postponed by the Supreme Court, on account of the inability of Justice WILSON to be present. No time was named for the case, but the Court expressed its hope that Justice NELSON would be able to take his place on the Bench, so that the argument could be heard before the end of the present session. The statement that Chief-Justice CHASE would preside in the Court today was not verified by the fact. It is, however, probable that he will resume his place on the Bench very soon, and especially if the cases mentioned above should actually come up for decision. His health is in every way sufficiently restored to warrant his resuming the Bench at any time when his presence there may appear to be especially needed in an important case.

THE KU-KLUX DEBATE.

The new Mr. SAULSBURY made a set speech today against the Ku-Klux bill. It was his maiden speech. Only a single particular would have reminded one that this SAULSBURY was the brother of the jolly gunner who went out of the Senate on the 4th of March. That was the repetition of the Saulsbury stock phrases touching the speedy dissolution of the Republican Party. Mr. POOL finished up his defense of the State Government of North Carolina, and an exposition of affairs generally in that State, which he began some time since, and favored the bill. BAYARD held the floor in opposition to the bill for two hours, and when he finished the Senate went into Executive Session with closed doors, and adjourned till to-morrow. Mr. THURMAN holds the floor for the first speech to-morrow. Messrs. CASSERLY and BLAIR are also advertised to speak. Mr. SCHURZ is understood to have a speech ready in opposition to the measure. Mr. SUMNER, thus far, has taken no part in the discussion, and the Democrats profess not to understand how he supports the bill or can vote for it. They cannot see how he can vote to give the President powers to use the military against citizens of the United States that he attacks him for employing, as they express it, against a few savages in a distant island. Mr. SUMNER will, therefore, doubtless have to make a speech to explain. It is thought the speeches will all be finished and the vote taken before midnight to-morrow.

JOBSON RAMPANT.

WARREN JOBSON, libertine, pathcopher, speculator, politician, and humbug generally, has quite thinly failed in an attempt to impose his stupidity on the Marshal of the New-York. At any rate, Mr. SUMNER today presented a petition in the Senate for him, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee, in which an attack is made on that official.

PROGRESS OF THE AMNESTY BILL.

Mr. ROBERTSON is bound to force the Senate to take some definite action to show whether it will consider the Amnesty bill at this session. Hopes are expressed by the friends of the measure that it will be passed, but no just ground of such hopes can be discovered.

PROBABLE DISPOSAL OF THE FORCE BILL.

It is now the declared purpose among Senators to vote on the Ku-Klux bill to-morrow. A smart attack is made on the amendments proposed by the Judiciary Committee, but it is pretty safe to predict they will for the most part be agreed to. With the exception of Mr. TRUMBULL, all the ablest lawyers on the Republican side support them. The expectation is freely expressed in the Senate that final achievement may take place Saturday or Monday, but that depends upon the action of the House regarding the amendments made to the bill by the Senate. It is the opinion of those Republicans in the House who have taken most interest in the Ku-Klux bill that the House will readily concur in the Senate amendments to the bill, with the exception possibly of the amendment to the third section, which touches the power of the President to send troops to a State for the suppression of disorder. The effect of the Senate amendment is believed by some to make the power of the President more direct, and does not leave it contingent upon the action or non-action of State authority. Should the House receive the bill on Friday morning, it will be possible to adjourn on Saturday.

MORE TALK ON THE DEFICIENCIES.

The House further continued the discussion of the Deficiency bill today. Quite a spicy debate came up on the paragraph giving $12,000 to the poor of the District. The Democrats charged that it was for the purpose of buying votes in the pending election, but as it is impossible to disburse the money before the election shall have come off, the charge has no weight. A very spirited discussion sprang up on the Senate amendment repealing the law which provides for a session of Congress on the 4th of March. The amendment was at first concurred in on a division by a large vote, but on the yeas and nays was thrown open to debate, and a long discussion ensued, which was not concluded when an adjournment was had. Mr. DAWES favored repeal in an earnest speech, while Mr. BINGHAM as earnestly opposed it. It is doubtful now whether the amendment will be carried.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

NOMINATIONS BY THE PRESIDENT.

The President sent the following nominations to the Senate today: J. M. Livermore, to be Surveyor of Customs at Eastport and for the District of Passamaquoddy Bay; J. Q. Dickson, to be United States Marshal for Arizona Territory; W. H. Bates, to be Register of the Land Office at East Saginaw, Mich.; E. Q. Warren, to be Receiver of Public Money at East Saginaw, Mich.; E. C. Comstadium, to be Surveyor-General for the District of Nebraska and Iowa.

MEXICAN CLAIMS.

The statement that CALEB CUSHING has been or is to be appointed Commissioner to Mexico in relation to the Claims Commission, or for any other purpose, is incorrect. Mr. NELSON, our Minister to Mexico, has been charged with the subject. It is possible that the Mexican Government in acting upon it may need information from Mr. CUSHING, their counsel, either in writing or by personal communication, which after consideration may give occasion for his going to Mexico. The Commission will expire on the 31st of January next. There are 2,000 cases on the dockets, and only forty have been decided; hence the necessity for an extension of time in which to conclude the business. Private advices from the City of Mexico say that President JUAREZ has expressed his willingness to conclude an additional convention with that view.

THE SOUTHERN CLAIMS COMMISSION.

The Southern Claims Commission held their second public session today. Several cases were set for a future hearing, and the Commission then took up the claim of the Sixth Auditor, MARTIN, of the Post-office Department, for mules, wagons and various articles taken from his plantation in Alabama during GRIERSON'S raid through Mississippi and Alabama. The question of their jurisdiction over claims for occupied buildings in the Southern States was presented by an attorney present, but the Commissioners declined to answer until a case involving the point came up for consideration. The Commission gave public notice of their desire to have the petitions addressed to them for the allowance of claims accompanied by all the written evidence, of whatever character, in possession of the claimants. They also decided that their rules did not require the "iron-clad" oath attached to petitions to be wholly in writing, but that a printed form may be used. There were about fifty persons, claimants and agents, present today.

REDEMPTION OF COINS.

The circular of the Secretary of the Treasury in relation to the redemption of copper and other token coins has been amended so as to provide that each denomination and kind of copper, nickel or bronze coins, forwarded to the Mint at Philadelphia for redemption, must be assorted before shipment by the party sending them. There are three kinds of one-cent pieces, viz.: copper cents issued prior to 1857; nickel-copper cents issued from 1857 to 1864, and bronze cents issued from 1864 to 1871. These, as well as the bronze two-cents pieces and the copper-nickel three and five cent pieces, must be put up separately, and forwarded in packages in the aggregate of $20 or a multiple thereof, which packages must also be accompanied by a schedule of each kind of coin, and the name and Post-office address of the party sending the package. The expenses of transporting these coins, which must always be in sums of $20 and upward, must be paid by the parties sending them to the place of redemption. The parties must advise the Director of the Mint, by mail, of the amount and kind of coin forwarded, and upon what Assistant Treasurer the check shall be drawn in payment thereof.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE NEW LOAN.

The subscriptions to the new loan today were $200,000, the larger portion of which was in comparatively small sums from private parties.

VISIT FROM AN AUSTRIAN OFFICER.

The Captain of the Austrian frigate Novarra, now at Annapolis, paid a complimentary visit to the Secretary of the Navy today.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Special Report on Yellow Fever—Mortality and Movements of Contagious Diseases.

The Board of Health met, yesterday, at the usual hour, President BOSWORTH in the chair, and Commissioners BASS, CROCHERON, GROSS, MANIERRE, MULLALY and S. SMITH being present.

Upon reports presented by the Attorney it was ordered that suits be commenced in four-teen cases of violations of the Tenement-house law, twelve cases of non-compliance with the orders of the Board, and one case of violation of the Sanitary Code.

The Sanitary Committee made a report in the case of the poisoning of Mrs. MAY by using carbolic acid which had been left with her as a disinfectant, in which it is said that the method of distribution of the disinfectants used by the Board is safe and satisfactory, and the instructions of the City Sanitary Inspector are full, sufficient and explicit. In the case of Mrs. MAY due caution was used, but in order to further guard against such casualties it was recommended and ordered that hereafter all bottles containing carbolic acid left with citizens shall be labeled "poison."

Commissioner SMITH offered a resolution, which was adopted, that Dr. J. C. NOTT, Special Health Inspector, be requested to make a report to the Board giving all the facts in relation to the outbreak of yellow fever on Governor's Island in 1870, and also what sanitary precautions are necessary to protect the City against visitations of this disease in the future.

Dr. RUSSELL, Register of Records, reported 608 registered deaths for the past week, being a decrease of 86 as compared with the previous week. The mortality from small-pox fell from 24 to 24, a diminution of 50 per cent. This large decrease is considered by the epidemic very encouraging, as it had been steadily increasing for several weeks previously. Scarlatina destroyed 12 lives during each of the past two weeks. The most marked falling off in mortality occurred in that of pulmonary complaints—phthisis having occasioned but 78 deaths, and local respiratory affections but 76, against 101 and 106 respectively, in the previous week. We are justified in attributing this improvement principally to the amelioration in temperature, from a mean of 41° Farenheit, in the week ending April 1, to a mean of 51° in that ending April 8. On the last day mentioned, the mercury rose to a maximum of 99° in the shade and 114° in the sun—the highest temperature recorded in the present year up to that date.

Dr. MORRIS, City Sanitary Inspector, made a report showing the following comparative statement of contagious diseases reported for the two weeks ending April 8, 1871:

Week ending April 1, typhoid fever, 10; relapsing fever, 3; scarlet fever, 76; small-pox, 83; measles, 43; diphtheria, 19.

Week ending April 8, typhus fever, 1; typhoid fever, 4; relapsing fever, 2; scarlet fever, 70; small-pox, 72; measles, 29; diphtheria, 9.

The Assistant Health Inspectors visited 10,251 families in their own houses, and vaccinated 2,150 persons therein during the last week. They also vaccinated 1,466 children in the public and parochial schools, making a total of vaccinations performed during the week of 4,005; 921 of these were primary and 3,084 secondary.

In reference to the slaughter-house at the foot of West Fifty-second street, Dr. MORRIS stated that the Sanitary Committee, having just become acquainted with some new facts, would not be able to report until the next meeting.

Balls Last Night.

A soiree was held last evening at Irving Hall in connection with Mr. SAUER'S dancing academies. Dancing commenced at 9 o'clock, and was kept up with great spirit till 2 o'clock to the strains of RUSSELL'S Band. About 1,500 of the Professor's past and present pupils assembled with their friends. Great praise is due to Col. FUNK and Mr. W. VAN TASSELL for their excellent arrangements, which added so materially to the pleasures of the evening.

Company H, of the Eighty-fourth Regiment, gave its ninth annual reception last evening at their armory, Eighty-fourth-st. and Broadway. Dancing commenced at 10 o'clock, and was kept up with more than ordinary energy till the small hours of the morning. The new drill-room was admirably fitted up for the occasion. Capt. TAYLOR and Lieuts. JOHN H. FARRELL and AUGUSTUS J. COLLINS are the officers of the Company. About 400 ladies and gentlemen were present, besides the members of the Company.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

SHAKESPEARE AT NIBLO'S.

"The Life and Death of Richard III." has been placed before the audiences of Niblo's Theatre in a fashion indicative of ambition and prodigality. A large company has been engaged to act the tragedy, and an array of scenery, dresses and accessories has been gotten to realize quoted and place, which it will be impossible to excel in beauty, correctness or completeness. We shall be sorry if a long run of the piece does not reward good intentions and hard labors. We shall not, however, be surprised if the recompense is rather inadequate to their merits. A mistake has been made in discarding the better-known acting edition of "Richard III." in favor of the closet-copy. And an error much more serious has been committed in the engagement of a performer ill-fitted to the task of impressing his hearers with the characteristics of Richard, and, as a consequence, with the significance of the play. The miscellaneous acting in "Richard III." is fair, but that of Mr. JAMES BENNETT is not good. The popular knowledge of SHAKESPEARE is not sufficiently intimate to debar a relish for a striking but improbable Macbeth, or for a gloomy and exceedingly peculiar Hamlet. But the investigation needed to arrive at a reasonably-close estimate of the traits of the Duke of Gloster, is one which has been generally made, and with satisfying results. Mr. BENNETT supplies a portrait from which even the telling conventionalities are missing. He has, indeed, neither ease of bearing, nor subtlety, nor dignity, nor malignant power wherewith to set those conventionalities forth, if they are ever present to his mind. Mr. BENNETT, in fact, is an actor who, as the present day is least, has few of the qualities entitling him to rank with the interpreters of SHAKESPEARE. His physique is of ordinary aspect, his voice is monotonous, his vocal articulation often indistinct, and his elocution defective. It is painful to put all this on record, but the necessity for so doing cannot be avoided. There are half a dozen players content to fill engagements at less important theatres, who are far worthier the distinction which the generosity of the management of Niblo's has conferred upon Mr. BENNETT. As a vicorous mouthpiece of the poet's words, Mr. NEIL WARNER, who only appears in the few scenes in which Richmond takes part, would be infinitely preferable, and as an earnest, experienced, and studious player, as well as a capital elocutionist, Mr. MILNES LEVICK, who was equally in relief during the representations of "Hamlet" with Mr. FECHTER, deserves and carries off much higher honors. These two gentlemen do the most creditable histrionic work in the tragedy. There is, be it said, a great deal of individual talent in the company, but it is talent of a different order, for a Shakespearean acting-drama is not that which usually surrounds its development. Mr. I. R. SHERWELL, an artist of more than average ability, does not show to marked advantage as the Duke of Buckingham. Mr. THEODORE HAMILTON can only turn to slight profit the rôle of Lord Hastings. Mr. J. H. JACK'S task is the embodiment of Lord Stanley and more successfully of slender treatment. The witnesses of agreeable revivals of Shakespearean works require little enlightenment as to Miss. POWERS'S attainments. That lady is Margaret; Miss. FANNIE is the Duchess of York, and Miss LOUISA HAWTHORNE a most inefficient Lady Anne. The youthful Princes are personated by Misses MAMIE LE BRUN and MINNIE MADDERN, and the little one last named speaks her lines with fidelity and exceptional cleverness. Thus much of the rendering; we shall soon turn to a more pleasant theme. We have said above, however, that the selection of the original text was impolitic. Not only is it unfamiliar, but, for stage purposes, it is ineffective. Were its endless changes of localities alone in question, its use ought to have been eluded. The tableau curtains hide the stage from the eye at least twenty times during the progress of the entertainment, and the continuity of thought is often interrupted. The single excuse for this concealment and proportionate swiftness of the carpenters' activity is happily almost strong enough to warrant the innovation. The scenery of "The Life and Death of Richard III." is in all respects admirable. It includes, we believe, fifteen sets, in which a faithful reproduction of old London, after leading authorities, is attained to, with an unvarying minuteness of detail and delicacy of color. Out of the numerous views, those of a regal Gothic apartment in the Palace of Windsor, of the cloisters at Westminster, of the Tower Fortress from the west, and of the palace hall in act the third, the tableau of old London in act the fourth, and the sketches of Richard's tent and of Bosworth Field are conspicuous. The costumes and armors are in keeping in the matter of truthfulness, variety and elegance, and so are the accessories. The procession in the fourth act forms the most picturesque episode out of many interesting incidents, and would in itself recompense the spectator for his attendance. The bustle of the battle-field is also to be remembered, and the directly-preceding events are to be referred to as leading up to it by most realistic means. Like the scene arrangements, the music is suggestive of the age in which it was sounded. The minuet in "Don Giovanni," though, could never have been executed in the fifteenth century, and its introduction is a decided anachronism. We are scarcely called upon to add that the opportunity offered to applaud a scenic revival so beautiful and instructive ought not to be overlooked—it has certainly not been unheeded since Monday night—and that while we may express a wish of improvement in the interpretation of the tragedy, and a willingness to note it as speedily as possible, we can find commendation only for the motives which have led to the resetting of the work, and of unlimited approval for the spirit and liberality, by means of which the material portion of it, especially, has been so thoroughly and superbly accomplished.—The entertainment terminates now at 11:20 o'clock.

AMATEUR PERFORMANCE.

The Amateur Dramatic Association, of which Mr. A. A. ANDERSON is President, gave a performance in aid of the Church of the Holy Light and its home for the blind, at the Union League Theatre, last evening. The play was "London Assurance," and it was cast as follows:

Sir Harcourt Courtly	Mr. T. Hardenbergh
Mr. Hardman	Mr. C. Hardenbergh
Charles Courtly	Mr. A. A. Anderson
Dolly Spanker	Mr. David Scott
Richard Dazzle	Mr. O. W. Maurice
Lawyer Meddle	Mr. Chas. G. Shaw, Jr.
Cool	Mr. F. L. Warrin
Solomon Isaacs	Mr. J. C. Livingston
James	Mr. F. Houghton
Martin	Mr. W. Thornton
Lady Gay Spanker	Miss Higgins
Grace Harkaway	Miss Warrin
Pert	Miss Lucy Higgins

The acting was very good, and was much applauded by the large and select audience present. The entertainment, doubtless, realized a handsome sum for the charity in aid of which it was given.

Musical.

MISS DEMOREST'S CONCERT.

Miss VIENNA DEMOREST sang at Steinway Hall last evening. The young lady's friends were gathered in force, it being understood that she is about to depart for Italy, where, it is to be hoped that her musical education, seemingly held to be ended, will be begun. Having expressed this desire on our part, it is unnecessary to review in detail her performance yesterday, which was characterized mainly by a nasal emission of the voice, by a tendency to sing false, the result of an ill-trained ear, and by vast self-reliance. This is a harsh report, but the concert was a public one, and the indulgent words suggested by a previous test appear to have been mistaken for an utterance resulting from amazement at the lady's merits. We trust that when we next hear Miss DEMOREST, real culture will enable us to speak with equal decision of her talent. She was assisted last night by Messrs. THOMAS, HILL and POSNANSKI, and by Miss FERRANDA TEDESCA. A wretched accompaniment to SCHUBERT'S "Wanderer" would have dismayed any but an accomplished musician like Mr. THOMAS. Miss TEDESCA played with great brilliancy and finish, and her two violin pieces were without doubt the most artistic, and also the most telling features of the bill.

CONCERT AT ASSOCIATION HALL.

A well-attended vocal and instrumental concert was given by Mr. JOHN A. ADAMS, a well-known baritone, and the Brothers ANDERSON, at Association Hall, last evening. Among those who took part in the entertainment were Mme. ALFRED, soprano; Mrs. F. CRANE, contralto; and Mr. WALTER R. JOHNSON, organist.

MISS RENE'S CONCERTS.

The first of Miss CARRIE RENE'S concerts at Steinway Hall is to occur this evening. The programme is a good one, and the fact that an orchestra under Mr. BERGMANN is to aid in its interpretation will make it more interesting than most affairs of the kind.

CRIME AND CRIMINALS.

Sentences by Recorder Hackett.

At the Court of General Sessions, before Recorder HACKETT, yesterday, MAX BASS, indicted on the charge of having set fire to his grocery-store, [illegible] the corner of Fifty-fourth-street and Second-avenue, was acquitted and honorably discharged.

DANIEL SMITH, better known about the Five Points as Black DAN, was arraigned on a charge of having, in company with FRANCIS BALLACCIO, an Italian, broken into the wine-store of ANTONIO CORIO, at No. 16 Baxter-street, stealing therefrom about $120 worth of wine. A sotto pressegus was entered in the case of BALLACCIO, who was used as a witness for the prosecution. SMITH was sent to the Penitentiary for three years.

THOMAS WATSON was tried on a charge of having visited the tailor-shop of No. 464 Seventh-avenue with another man, and stolen a pair of pantaloons worth $8. The prisoner caught JOHN HERVEY, who was in the store, by the legs, and threw him over the counter. The jury brought in a verdict of petit larceny, and WATSON was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

JAMES MCLAUGHLIN and CHARLES KING were sent to the Penitentiary for two years and six months for having stolen a set of harness worth $60 from the stable of ALFRED H. SEMION, of No. 79 Carmine-street.

CHARLES SMITH was sent to State Prison for four years and six months for stealing $107 worth of jewelry and clothing belonging to HENRY STARDER, of No. 295 Bowery.

The Court subsequently adjourned until this morning.

Criminals Disposed of at the Essex Market Police Court.

Officer THOMPSON, of the Essex Market Police Court Squad, made a complaint against KATARINA BAKER, of No. 12 Delancey-street, for keeping a disorderly house. Justice SCOTT issued a warrant for her arrest. While Officer THOMPSON was executing it, DAVID HERSER, HERMAN and JACOB LAURENS KLUCK interfered. HERSER seized a club and threatened the officer. They were all put under $500 bail to keep the peace for six months, which they furnished.

ELMER C. GREEN, employed as a cash-boy at E. RIDLEY & SON'S, in Grand-street, was charged with stealing $6 79 from his employers. ELMER said he bought a pistol with a part of the money, and spent the rest. He was held for examination by Justice SCOTT.

JAMES WILLIAMS, a sneak thief, was held for trial by Justice SCOTT on the charge of CLARA PAUL, of No. 316 Broome-street. It appears that during the absence of the family on Tuesday night, WILLIAMS forced a front door open, and was carrying away several articles when caught by Officer SCANLON, who arrested him on the spot.

Befriending a Sailor—An Outrageous Case.

According to a complaint just made before Judge DOWLING, on the night of March 20 two men entered the apartments of EDWARD BARNES, an English sailor, living at No. 43 Oak-street, and took him from his residence, on a warrant purporting to have been issued by the Marine Court, to Ludlow-street Jail, where he was locked up on a charge of assaulting FRANCIS BALL on the high seas. Next morning at 10 o'clock one of the men, named JOHN MONAHAN, took him from the prison to the brown-stone building in the City Hall Park, where he gave him into the custody of the other man who had assisted in his capture. BARNES was kept waiting, but still under arrest, on the steps of the building, for about two hours in a pelting rain, while JOHN W. O'TOOLE, who pretended to be a lawyer, was supposed to be conducting his case. At the end of that time O'TOOLE came to BARNES and said, if he would give him $20, he could get the case settled; otherwise, he (BARNES) would be taken to Sing Sing Prison. BARNES not being well, and being wet through, after some delay, gave O'TOOLE $20 in money and a note of hand for $10, although aware that he had committed no offense, and had not even seen FRANCIS BALL, to his knowledge. He subsequently found that no warrant had been issued for his arrest, neither had any charge been made against him at the Marine Court for any offense whatever. BARNES, therefore, on Tuesday, applied to Justice DOWLING for a warrant for the arrest of O'TOOLE and MONAHAN, and they were yesterday taken by Capt. ALLAIRE to the Tombs Police Court, where they were fully committed for trial, in default of $2,000 bail. O'TOOLE said he was a native of Ireland, thirty-two years old, resided in No. 293 Mason-street, a clerk, and was not guilty. MONAHAN also said he came from Ireland, was thirty-nine years old, and lived at No. 110½ Cherry-street, where he kept a boarding-house. He said also that, as a Deputy Sheriff, he made the arrest on a warrant issued from the Marine Court.

The Recent Raid in Greenwich-Street—Writs of Habeas Corpus.

Mr. CHARLES S. SPENCER, on behalf of some ninety-seven women recently raked in in the raid on Greenwich-street by the Police, sued out writs of habeas corpus, which were made returnable before Judge BRADY, in Supreme Court Chambers, yesterday. The Judge waived the necessity of the prisoners appearing in Court, and heard argument on a motion for their discharge.

Mr. SPENCER contended that the commitments were irregular and void. In the first place, some of the affidavits charged the acts complained of to have been done in the year 1870. They set forth that the prisoners were guilty of using insulting and indecent language, without stating what that language was, to afford the Court an opportunity to judge whether the language was indecent, and whether it tended to a breach of the public peace. They also charged the prisoners, jointly and en masse, with being disorderly, without alleging any specific acts against them individually.

Judge GARVIN, in opposition to the motion to discharge, recited the circumstances under which the arrests were made, and contended that there was no fatal irregularity, either in the affidavits or commitments.

Judge BRADY took the papers, and reserved his decision.

Heavy Burglary in Eighth-Avenue.

During Tuesday night burglars effected an entrance into the premises of J. & T. RYDD, No. 308 Eighth-avenue, from the rear and into the basement. They gained the store by boring through the floor from the basement, and carried away without being seen a quantity of goods, mostly silks, to the amount, it is claimed, of $5,000. No inventory of the stolen property has yet been furnished. Capt. MCDERMOTT, who is investigating the case, but has not discovered any clue to the robbers or property.

Fish and His Victims Before the Supreme Court in Brooklyn.

In the General Term of the Supreme Court, now sitting in Brooklyn, the case of ORLANDO W. JOSLYN et al. vs. JAMES FISK, Jr., came up, yesterday, for consideration. The case is an appeal from an order granted by Judge BARNARD, of New-York, removing sixteen cases from the Superior Court and Court of Common Pleas of that City to the Supreme Court. The amount involved in these cases is about $1,500,000. They are based on the memorable transactions which took place on Friday, the 29th of September, 1869, in the Gold Exchange of New-York. It appears that upon application of defendant's counsel, Judge BARNARD granted an order directing the removal of all of these cases to the Supreme Court. Plaintiffs' counsel appealed from this order to the General Term in the First District, and, after argument, Judge CARDOZO rendered an opinion sustaining Justices BARNARD'S order, while Justice INGRAHAM, his associate, rendered an opinion directly the reverse.

Justice BARNARD not being qualified to sit at General Term upon appeals from his own orders, the wheels of justice were locked by this disagreement of opinion on the part of the Judges sitting, and accordingly, on the 27th of March last, as provided by the statute, an order was made by the General Term in New-York City directing the appeal to be heard in this district. The Court took the papers and reserved its decision.

Possibility of an Adjournment of the Legislature This Week.

Discussion of the Items of the Supply Bill—An Attempt to Purchase Old Relics—Tweed Extending His Sway to Buffalo—An Old Swindle Revived—Business Being Hurried Up—The Tweed Ring "Stuck" on Party Bills.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 13.—The entire afternoon and evening sessions of the Assembly were occupied in discussing the various items of the Supply bill. The clause changing the Capitol Commission gave rise to a lengthy discussion, in which Messrs. ALVORD, GREENE, THE ROOK and PERSON opposed the change, and Messrs. HUSTED, JACOBS and GLEASON favored it. Mr. ALVORD claimed that the change could not be made by a simple clause in the Supply bill, and would be declared by the Courts unconstitutional. He was a friend of the two Republicans whom it was proposed to put on the new Commission, and was equally a friend of those now on it, one of whom, Mr. TERWILLIGER, was from his county, and was a man of the highest integrity and competency for the position. The unfortunate personal quarrel between the two gentlemen, PERTON and CONKLING, claiming to be the leaders of the Republican Party in this State, had already destroyed the unity and harmony of the party, and this proposition to change the Capitol Commission merely to get the friends of one of the gentlemen out and the friends of the other in, would only add fuel to the flame. In the interests of the party, therefore, and inasmuch as no complaint had been made against any of the present Commissioners, he protested against the change. Mr. SILKMAN was opposed to reducing the number of the Commissioners, as he believed all sections of the State should be represented in directing the construction of the new Capitol. Mr. HUSTED gave as one reason for the change that one of the present Republican Commissioners, TERWILLIGER, was so much occupied with his duties as Deputy Collector of the Port of New-York, that it was impossible for him to attend the meetings of the Commission. He disclaimed the imputation that the PERTON and CONKLING quarrel had anything to do with the proposed change, but everybody here knows that the PERTON men and the Tammany Republicans, led by Hank SMITH, have been lobbying for the change for a week past. The clause was finally adopted, without amendment, in Committee of the Whole, by a small majority.

RELICS OF WASHINGTON.

An item in the bill appropriating $50,000 to purchase some pretended relics of Gen. WASHINGTON, belonging to Mrs. LEWIS WASHINGTON, a Second lady of Baltimore, Va., gave rise to a long discussion, which resulted in striking out the item. The appropriation of $40,000 only for the new Capitol was carried, but it will doubtless be largely increased when the Supply bill gets into the Senate.

THE POLICE OF BUFFALO.

The Senate was occupied during the evening in discussing the Buffalo Police bill, the New-York Senators advocating the bill, while the representatives from Buffalo, Mr. LEWIS, strongly opposed it, in accordance with instructions from the Democratic Common Council of that city. Boss TWEED, it appears, has undertaken to transfer his authority to Buffalo in anticipation of the loss of his power in New-York.

LEGALIZING AN ANCIENT FRAUD.

Mr. TWEED introduced a bill this evening, to legalize and confirm the acts of the old Board of Supervisors of New-York, increasing the salaries of Supreme, Superior, Common Pleas, Marine and Justices Courts. The increase was made in open defiance of law, and paid by Controller CONNOLLY, knowing that he had no right to pay it. The Ring foresee that they will have to render an account of their acts at no distant day, and they are trying to protect themselves by legalizing illegal acts committed two or three years ago.

Expiration of the Hundred Days—Wanoing Power of Tweed—The "Ring" Abandon All Hope of Passing Party Bills—The Capitol Commission—Excise Matters—The Democracy and Free Mens.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Wednesday, April 12, 1871.

The hundred days are up today, and the State will no longer contribute its $3 per diem toward the board bills of members. Boss TWEED had set his heart on adjourning the Legislature today, hoping by this time to get all his bills through, and at the same time win a little political capital by limiting the session for the first time in several years to the constitutional one hundred days. But independent of the Irving fence row which interfered with the programme, the Boss finds his hook and reel a good deal less potent in the Legislature than it was two or three weeks ago. The "hay-loft and cheese-press" will have a word to say hereafter as to when the Legislature shall adjourn, and what bills shall pass while it remains in session. As intimated in my dispatch yesterday, the Tammany Ring will not control another Legislature here for several years to come, and if the people will only do their duty in the City, the infamous gang of thieves can be speedily broken up and driven into obscurity to enjoy their ill-gotten plunder.

It is now reported on very good authority that the Ring have decided to abandon all of the strict party measures that they had got through the Senate before the resignation of IRVING. They find it impossible to buy up any Republicans to vote for the amended Registry bill, the amended Election law, or the amended City charter; but they still have hopes of getting the Two per Cent. Tax bill through the Assembly after toning down some of its most objectionable features. It is reported that they will offer an amendment specifying for what purposes and to what departments the "Board of Apportionment" shall appropriate the money to be raised by tax, thus limiting in some degree their discretionary and arbitrary power. With this amendment they may possibly pass the bill, though the principle on which it is based remains as objectionable as ever, and ought to receive the opposition of every honest man in the Legislature. It is said that SMITH WEED will oppose the bill and make a speech against it, unless he is cut off by the previous question, and if that be so two Republicans, at least, will have to sell themselves to secure its passage.

SALARIES OF SAVINGS BANK OFFICERS.

The Senate today passed a bill, introduced by Senator BRADLEY, to "regulate the salaries of Trustees of Savings Banks," which reads as follows:

"No trustee, as such, or acting as officer of any savings bank within this State, shall receive any compensation or salary for his services until such bank shall have an accumulated surplus of profits to the amount of at least ten per cent of its gross deposits; and in no case whatever shall any compensation be paid except out of the profits in excess of said reserved fund of ten per cent."

THE CAPITOL COMMISSION.

It is believed that the clause in the Supply bill changing the Capitol Commission will pass the Assembly, by a combination of Democratic and Tammany-Republican votes, but its fate in the Senate is doubtful. The Democracy have nothing to gain in the proportion of men they are to have on the new Commission, and several of them will oppose any change. I am told that Hon. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, one of the Republicans named for the new Commission, has not sought the place, and does not care whether a change is made or not. Mr. DEPEW is a man whom every Republican in the State can indorse, and, if the dissatisfaction and want of harmony in the party could be left to his arbitration, he would settle the difficulty satisfactorily in a week, and unite the party, from one end of the State to the other.

THE EXCISE LAW.

For the last time this session the struggle over the Excise law of the State has been had. Early in March Senator PARKER introduced into the Senate a bill generally known as O'DONNELL'S Prohibitory law, and which is intended to take the entire liquor question out of politics. The bill has not been printed, and every time that an attempt has been made to discuss it, some excuse of adjournment or order has been raised by the Democracy to prevent its consideration. This morning it was called up, but before it could be debated a motion was made by Mr. HUSSTED to lay it on the table, and was carried by a party vote. The bill provides that when at any time a majority of the people of any locality shall sign a remonstrance against the sale of intoxicating liquor, the paper may be filed in the office of the County Clerk, and it then becomes a prohibitory law for the term to which it applies. It can be seen that this takes the question out of politics, and leaves the people in a position easily and understandingly, unbiased by the claims of candidates, to decide what they wish to do on this most important matter. Of course, the Democrats made a show of vigorous resistance to cover the odium of opposition to so proper a measure. Senator HUSSTED became quite plaintive; he said it was not fair to throw upon the Democratic majority the odium of passing this bill, when if it was a beneficial one the Republicans in the past had had the power to enact it. It was hardly a courageous defense, but did well enough to cover the cracks of men who will be so generally excused by their chief supporters, viz., the whisky dealers of the State. Senator PARKER interfered somewhat with Mr. HUSSTED'S consistency by saying that when the bill of last Winter was passed, the Senator then pleaded for some law that would relieve politics from this troublesome question. Such a bill was now before the Senate, and the Senator comes forward as its chief opponent. Senator SCOTT, in a few remarks, gave a history of Democratic double-dealing in this matter. Prior to 1870, before the Democratic Party had obtained unlimited power, all Excise laws have been the result of compromise, but as soon as a Democratic Legislature were ready to do the bidding of a Democratic Executive, then, forgetful of the action in the past, they took into consideration the wants of their grog-mill constituency, and opened every groggery to the sale of the vile poisons that now deluge the country. The passage of this bill would have relieved many a small village of its grog-shops that is destroying its citizens and maleading its youth. But beside this it would also destroy the vote-maker of the Democracy. Could morality or right have a chance in such a contest?

THE ALIEN BILL.

The bill to allow aliens to hold real property in this State was discussed and killed in the Senate. Mr. HARDENBURGH, following the line of argument that won for the heirs of the Fox estate the real property that, under the will of the elder Fox, was to go to the United States, said that if the power was given to any person or power owing an allegiance foreign to the State of New-York to hold real estate within our borders, it was not an impossibility that a time should come when the entire territory of the State would be under the control of foreigners, and that the Government of the State would lapse by reason of the inherent defect of our laws. It was not wise that this Legislature should allow upon the statute books of the State a law which even in a contingency, however remote, should present such danger to our institutions.

Mr. MURPHY said that England had passed a law similar to this, and insisted that we should not be behind her in liberality. The Senate thought that safety should be placed before liberality, and agreed with Mr. HARDENBURGH, that if aliens wished to hold our real estate, they should become citizens of our State.

CHAIRMANSHIP.

SMITH WEED reappeared in his seat today, for the first time since the affair of Friday night. The cut under his eye has nearly healed up, and he is in condition to meet any opposition that Tammany may bring against him, whether in the shape of blows or arguments. Tammany seems to be unfortunate in a portion of the delegation she sends to the Legislature. Last session one of her members was compelled to absent himself from Albany for the last two or three weeks of the session to escape an indictment for bigamy committed during the session, and now another is forced to resign to prevent expulsion.

GLAD TIDINGS FOR YONKERS.

The people of Yonkers will rejoice to hear that the bill for widening and straightening Main-street has been approved by the Governor, and that they can now have an entrance to their village in keeping with its other beauties. S.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE

SENATE.....ALBANY, Wednesday, April 12.

BILLS PASSED.

The following bills relating to New-York and Brooklyn were passed:

Amending the charter of the National Savings Bank of New-York; to alter the Commissioners' map of Brooklyn; to provide for the better prevention of fires in New-York, and to prescribe the powers and duties of the Chief Fire Marshal; to incorporate the New-York Coal Exchange; amending the law relative to Commissioners of Estimation; relative to Reade-street, Brooklyn; to establish a Commission of Immigration and Emigration; increasing the Mutual Trust and Savings Institution in New-York; incorporating the Manhattan Loan and Trust Company; fixing the pay of stenographers in New-York City Courts; to refund money to the Seventy-ninth Regiment of National Guard; providing for better railroad accommodations in Westchester County and New-York; to improve North Second-street, Brooklyn; relative to the trial of offenses in the Court of Special Sessions in New-York.

Mr. CHAPMAN moved that the Committee on Internal Affairs be discharged from further consideration of the bill providing for towns, &c., deciding by vote the question of licensing for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Mr. HUBBARD moved to lay the motion on the table. Carried—14 to 13.

RAILROAD RIGHTS.

Mr. HARDENBURGH offered the following:

Whereas, The uses and secrecy of railroads operated by steam force has become essential to the wants and requirements of the people of this State; and

Whereas, Such railroads are permitted to be built solely for public use, and for that purpose only are they allowed to take, for compensation, what private property is necessary for the construction and convenient operation of their roads; therefore, if the Assembly concur, be it

Resolved, That we, the Legislature of the State of New-York, declare and proclaim, as our opinion and belief, that no railroad company formed or organized under the laws of this State can, without exceeding the right and violating the privileges permitted and conferred as a railroad corporation under the Constitution of the United States or laws made in accordance with and in obedience to the Constitution of this State, issue, or cause to be issued, bonds, stock, scrip, certificates, or any other kind of contract or agreement of such company whereby, while promises or pledges the payment of dividends or interest thereon by said company, and to secure the payment of such interest or dividends, rates on passenger travel, and tolls on freight transported over by such company over its road is levied and collected, or when the people requiring the use of such road is in any manner taxed to provide the means necessary for the payment of such interest or dividends unless the full par value of such evidences of indebtedness, contract or agreement of said company had been actually levied on and in good faith paid by the persons or party to whom such evidences of indebtedness, contract or agreement was issued by said company, and the amount received for the same had been by such company faithfully and honestly expended, or is being so expended, either in the construction, equipment or operation of its road; and we are now of the opinion and belief that the people requiring the use of any railroad doing business in this State are entitled to enjoy, without being taxed for such use, all the advantages accruing from such investments which have heretofore or hereafter may be made on the properties of such road out of the surplus earnings of such road. And we are further of the opinion and belief that whenever any railroad company, obtaining the charter for public use and doing business under the laws of this State, does any act of injustice, oppression or wrong to the public requiring the use of its road, it is the duty of the Legislature to take such action in the premises as will redress such wrongs and protect the public against such encroachments on their rights.

Resolved, That this Senate will not consent to a final adjournment of this Legislature, until other bills have been passed which will, in their effect, grant the relief asked for by the numerous petitioners, who have sent their prayers up to the Legislature, asking protection from oppressive and unjust railroad management.

Laid on the table under the rule, and ordered to be printed.

Recess until 4 P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

Mr. TWEED introduced a bill relative to the local government of the County of New-York, which localizes the action of the Board of Supervisors in increasing the salaries of Justices and Judges of Courts.

Almost the entire session was devoted to the first reading, mainly by Mr. LEWIS, of the Buffalo Police bill, which was finally ordered to a third reading. Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

Mr. FIELDS proposed to limit speeches to two minutes each. He was anxious to adjourn this week.

Mr. ALVORD—There are several important measures.

Mr. FIELDS—If the gentleman from Onondaga objects I will withdraw the motion. I only want it understood that we can adjourn this week if we will.

Mr. MACHTHAN introduced a bill to incorporate the Brooklyn Centre Union Building Association; also, to incorporate the Commercial Trust and Banking Company. Both referred, to be reported complete.

BILLS PASSED.

Making provision for the storage of combustible material, and relative to the freedom of telegraph in New-York; to incorporate the Grand Commandery of the State of New-York. Mr. FERRIS moved to amend the amendment to the veto and strike out the bill relative to carpenters and apprentices. Carried. The bill was then amended by striking out the ninth and seventh sections, and passed, by 76 to 32. To incorporate the Republic Life Insurance Company of New-York; to authorize the Green-street and Forty-second-street Railroad to extend their tracks in New-York; for the relief of the Brooklyn Dispensary; to amend the charter of the Brooklyn Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, in New-York; to incorporate the Brooklyn Steam Transit Company; to lay out One Hundred and Fiftieth-street, New-York; to incorporate the People's Mutual Benefit Company; to amend and consolidate the several acts relating to the Marine Court of New-York; regulating the collection of taxes in the City of Brooklyn; to amend the act extending the powers of Boards of Supervisors, except in the City of Brooklyn, and fixing the open and keep in repair Ocean-avenue, Kings County.

The Governor returned, without his approval, the bill to incorporate the New-York Real Estate Banking Company. His objections were against the unusual powers granted to the Company.

The Speaker stated that he had introduced this bill, but had not thought it worthy of such unusual provisions. He would ask that the bill be again referred to the Judiciary Committee, which was agreed to.

The bills appropriating $50,000 to the Ninth Regiment National Guard, to refund moneys paid by the regiment for uniforms during the late war, and making provision for the trial of offenses in the Court of Special Sessions in New-York, in cases of vacancies on the Bench, were passed.

Recess till 4 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. ALVORD, on a question of privilege, stated that notwithstanding it was promised that the Supply bill should lie on the files of the members at an early hour today, it was but a few minutes ago laid on the desks. He had had no opportunity to examine the bill, which he had understood was of much greater importance than usual. He did not feel disposed to lose any time, but he considered it only right that its consideration be postponed until this evening.

Messrs. FIELDS, JACOBS and HUSTED opposed postponement, and the motion was lost, 40 to 61.

The House then went into Committee on the Supply bill, which was read and passed upon, each item separately.

Mr. ALBERGER moved to insert $150,000 to complete the Lunatic Asylum, at Buffalo. Carried.

Mr. HITCHMAN moved to insert $25,000 for the improvement of the Institution of Deaf Mutes, in New-York. Carried.

The House then took a recess till 7½ P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

On reassembling, the House went into Committee again on the Supply bill.

An item authorizing the State officers to investigate a claim of RICHARD CALDROW for $8,000 was stricken out, as was also the item of $36,000 for the State Poultry Society.

Mr. ALVORD moved to strike out the item of $10,000 for MARSHALL M. WILLIAMS for acting as Commissioner to the French Exposition.

THE NEW CAPITOL BUILDING.

Mr. ALVORD moved to strike out "the sum of $250,000 is appropriated toward the erection, and Hamilton Harris, Wm. C. Kingsley, Wm. A. Rice, Chauncey Depew, Delos De Wolf and E. A. Merritt are hereby appointed Commissioners for the purpose of erecting the new Capitol building, in place of the present Board," and leave standing this: "In the construction of the new Capitol, the skilled labor of this State shall have the preference, and the same prices in all work that is done by day's labor."

Mr. ALVORD advocated his motion, stating that he was not opposed to the construction of this building, but agreed with the Governor that no appropriation should now be made. He believed that making annual appropriations was not the way to carry on the work; it was the cause of the immense cost of this State, and if the politicians' children, would see this building completed. This section also provided for a change in the Commission, and which he regarded as unconstitutional in the bill. He referred to the sectional controversy in the Republican Party, saying he was not the representative of either. Whenever there was any such controversy he would never be found here. He stood here, however, as the friend of ALONZO CORNELL and JAMES TERWILLIGER, gentlemen of high honor and usefulness in the Republican Party. He therefore called upon his party not to take any action which will make this bill unconstitutional, as it is, and should be, simply an appropriation bill, nor any action to sanction the removal of the two men he had named.

Mr. SILKMAN sustained the motion, principally because he was in favor of reducing this commission, instead of increasing it.

Mr. GLEASON took a similar view of the matter, but was opposed to the appropriation as too small. He thought if the Capitol was to be built it ought to be done with all speed. He would rather appropriate $1,000,000 than $25,000 now.

Mr. HUSTED was in favor of the section as it stands, both of the Commission and the appropriation, and proceeded to eulogize Mr. DEPEW.

Mr. HAVEN was sorry the gentleman from Onondaga had raised the question of the controversy between the two United States Senators from this State. He did not believe that question had anything to do with the reorganization of the Commission.

Mr. ALBERGER objected against the proposed change in the Commissioners as a base and dangerous imputation on the gentleman to be removed. He strongly advocated the construction of a Capitol, and moved to increase the appropriation to $1,000,000.

Mr. JACOBS said the sum provided was sufficient at present—a larger sum would be worse than useless.

Mr. LITTLEJOHN inquired of the gentleman from Onondaga, whether he imputed to the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee any intention to favor one side or the other of the Republican Party.

Mr. ALVORD replied in the negative, but he repeated that the public mind was impressed with the idea that this change originated in a desire to favor one side of the Republican Party at the expense of the other.

Mr. HUSTED inquired if the removal of Gen. PALMER was to favor one side at the expense of the other.

Mr. ALVORD—All I have to say in reply is, that when the blind follow blind leaders, they must expect to be led into a ditch. [Laughter.]

Mr. TEN EYCK moved to strike out the name of EDWIN A. MERRITT and insert that of A. B. LANHAM, and proceeded to advocate his motion.

Mr. GREENE came with all respect for whom the gentleman from Seneca, (TEN EYCK,) who is a Democrat, to move to strike out the name of a Republican and to insert that of another of the same party. That was something the Republicans themselves should be allowed to do. But he (JACOBS) thought the Commission was properly organized, and hoped it would not be changed in the least.

The motion to increase the amount to $1,000,000 was lost.

The motion to strike out the section was also lost.

MORE APPROPRIATIONS.

Mr. WEED moved $20,000 to W. H. RHODES, Superintendent of Manufactures of Clinton Prison. Carried.

On motion of Mr. SILKMAN, $1,000 was inserted for the Commissioners of Willard Asylum, to settle with farmers.

Mr. GOODRICH moved to strike out the $20,000 to Mrs. LEWIS W. WASHINGTON, of Hallstown, West Va., for certain relics of Gen. GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The motion gave rise to warm discussion, in which its opponents spoke earnestly in favor of a due reverence for the memory of WASHINGTON, and its advocates urged the injustice of increasing the public debt by the purchase of luxuries.

The motion to strike out was carried—54 to 53.

Mr. RANDALL moved to insert $5,000 for the normal school at Cortland. Carried.

Mr. ALVORD moved to strike out the item of $10,000 to Gen. STORRS. He said this claim had been stricken out of the Supply bill annually for the twenty-seven years.

Mr. FIELDS made an appeal to the gentleman from Onondaga (ALVORD) to allow the poor old man to put to rest and for ever his claim in this soft and downy cradle.

The motion to strike out was lost—46 to 59.

The motion to insert Messrs. WEBB, PARSONS & Co. for work partially done at the time their printing establishment was burned, was stricken out.

Mr. ALVORD moved to increase the appropriation to the Idiot Asylum at Syracuse from $15,000 to $20,000. Carried.

Mr. ALVORD renewed his motion to strike out the section relative to the new Capitol Commissioners, which was lost by 52 to 53, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Alberger, Alvord, Berry, Bingham, V. F. Brown, Bunce, F. Burns, Cady, Chadwick, Deluse, Fee, C. N. Flanagan, Graham, Green, Howitt, J. W. Hull, Johnson, Lamb, Lansing, G. P. Lord, McDougal, Matthews, Pierce, Pound, Prince, Sage, Sanborn, Selkreg, Seiger, Stevenson, Strahan, Tucker, Wade, Wyman.

NAYS—Messrs. Aitken, Barker, Baylis, Bennett, Brewer, Buck, Burhans, D. Burns, Campbell, Carey, Chamberlain, Cole, Connolly, Conselyea, Cook, Coon, Coyle, Curtis, Decker, Drew, Fields, R. Flanagan, Fiske, Frank, Gleason, Goodrich, Hayes, Haver, D. P. Hill, Hoag, Howell, Husted, Jacobs, Kelly, Krack, Littlejohn, G. D. Lord, Loutzell, Lyons, Mc-Gan, Moseley, Mulhall, Murphy, Nachtmann, Nicholas, O'Brien, Palmer, Ray, Rooks, Scribner, Seward, Spencer, Swezey, Tallmadge, Tan Nieman, Wagner, Wainwright, Whey, Wilson, Wissen, Wood.

The bill was then ordered to be put on its final passage, and at 11 o'clock the House adjourned.

West Side Association—Rapid Transit.

The fifth public meeting of the "West Side Association" was held last evening at the Harvard Rooms, on Sixth-avenue, WILLIAM R. MARTIN, Esq., in the chair. The theme of the hour was rapid transit through the City from the Battery to Harlem. In the discussion the following points were considered: The commercial importance of New-York; appropriate names for the new avenues and public places, the present condition of the West side, improvements, the present chances for rapid transit. The principal topic of the evening was the new Viaduct bill. Mr. MARTIN delivered an elaborate address, describing the bill as very comprehensive in its features, and applicable to the requirements of the people. He said that while it was almost entirely in the power of Mr. PETER B. SWEENY to determine its future practical application, the people universally and peremptorily demanded relief from the present inadequate, tardy, and wretched mode of transportation, and that the Viaduct plan, properly applied, was the best. Mr. J. R. RUGGLES, Mr. CHURCH and others addressed the meeting, which afterward adjourned sine die.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

The steamers City of Paris and Cosmic both leave this port at 2 P. M. Saturday next for Liverpool, and on account of this agreement in the time of departure the report has been started that they intended racing. An additional coloring was given to the report from the fact that the City of Paris raced with the Russia some two years since, and is known to be one of the fastest boats on the Atlantic; but on inquiring at the office of the Inman Company the TIMES reporter was assured that the report was an entire fabrication, and that its existence had been a source of great annoyance, and detrimental to the interests of both Companies.

JOHN LUDWIG, of No. 162 Mott-street, on Monday night went into the concert-saloon, No. 344 Broome-street, corner of the Bowery, and called for some lager-beer, which was handed to him by EMILIE WAIT. Soon after he began to be drowsy, and his head fell forward on the table. The next he remembered was ALBERT MEYER, the proprietor of the place, pushing him from the premises, and on making an examination he found his gold watch and money, in all worth $230, had been stolen. Believing that his liquor had been drugged, he caused the arrest of MEYER and the girl EMILIE, and they were held by Justice DOWLING, yesterday, for examination.

FREDERICK CHASE, of Boston, yesterday visited the saloon No. 165 Chatham-street, and after partaking of some liquor, soon became insensible. While in this condition he was robbed of $50, and an HENRIETTA FONSOMEIER called given him the liquor, and ANDREW PETERSON was proprietor of the saloon, ANDREW and HENRIETTA were temporarily committed, and CHASE was detained also.

JANE HAMMOND, in whose possession was found the $1,000 camels'-hair shawl stolen from ARNOLD, CONSTABLE & Co. on April 6, having proven yesterday, before Justice DOWLING, that she was the wife of WILLIAM HAMMOND, and acting under his instructions, was discharged from custody, under the law for the protection of wives against the effects of the criminal conduct of their husbands.

Green, Andrew Warner, James Lennox, Robert M. Minturn, Robert Lennox Kennedy, Egerton L. Winthrop and Joseph W. Pattersen.

The Superintendent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mr. CAMPBELL, and his men have been very active of late. Last evening they seized ten horses, attached to different omnibuses in Broadway, the majority of which were covered with sores and blains. These horses are not sent out till dusk, with the hope that they will escape the inspector's eye. We understand that legal proceedings are to be taken against the proprietors.

To-morrow morning Mr. JOHN S. WARNER will present to the scholars in Grammar School No. 37, Eighty-seventh-street, between Third and Fourth avenues, thirty-eight silver medals, to be divided among the thirty-eight boys and girls who ranked the highest in general deportment and good conduct during the month of March. The "Jim Cusick" fined by Judge SHANDLEY for a brutal assault upon a Bleecker-street car conductor, is of the Eighth Ward, and altogether a different person from the JAMES CUSICK of the Seventeenth Ward, who is the trainer of JIM MACE.

An almost successful attempt to swindle H. B. KIRK & Co., No. 68 Fulton-street, was made yesterday by a well-dressed stranger, who purchased wines and cigars of them worth $205 48, and paid for them with a spurious check. The fraud was discovered in time to save the goods. The culprit escaped.

The senior classes of the School of the Collegiate Dutch Church, No. 160 West Twenty-ninth-street, were examined on Tuesday evening, in the higher branches of study, with much satisfaction to the parents and friends assembled. On Monday the Children's Aid Society completed the purchase of the building, No. 27 St. Mark's-place, for $23,500, to be used for a girls' lodging-house. The money had been kindly subscribed by the friends of the society.

Mr. T. W. M. MARSHALL lectures this evening at Cooper Institute, on "Liberty and the Catholic Church." The proceeds are to be devoted to the Poor Boys' Lodging-house, under care of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

BROOKLYN.

The quarterly conference meeting of the Congregational Churches of Brooklyn, New-York and vicinity, will be held this afternoon and evening, at the Elm-place Congregational Church. The subjects to be discussed are, "How to plant and aid new churches in the metropolitan district," and "How can woman's work be made most useful to the Church?" Messrs. BEECHER, RICHARDSON and SCUDDER are expected to participate in the debate. There are, in all, about forty churches in the Conference.

Mayor KALBFLEISCH having refused to sign bonds authorized to be issued by the city for various improvements to be made under direction of the Board of Water and Sewerage Commissioners, was yesterday morning served with a peremptory mandamus, requiring him to show cause, before Judge GILBERT, of the Supreme Court, on the 18th inst., why he should not be compelled to sign the said bonds. The total amount of the bonds is $180,000, of which $95,000 is in the construction of an engine at Ridgewood Reservoir, rebuilding dams, &c., and $85,000 in constructing drains within the boundary of the Bushwick sewer district.

By the monthly report of the Park Commissioners, it appears that the receipts, including a balance of cash on hand for the last thirty days, amount to $61,369 90, and the expenditures to $27,291 20; leaving a balance of $32,717 50. Mr. STRANAHAN states that they are in want of more money, and in view of that fact a resolution has been drawn up, asking $150,000 from the Aldermen. Among other improvements it is proposed to erect a new building in Prospect Park, to be known as "The Shelter," at a cost of $16,000.

LONG ISLAND.

The report that arrangements have been entered into between the managers of the Queens County Agricultural Society and the agent of Mr. STEWART, for the change of the Fair grounds, is premature. Mr. STEWART offers to give a plot of land equal in area and as advantageously located, besides assuming all the cost of the removal. But the managers residing in Hempstead, backed by the interest from that town, object, as the location which seems the most suitable is just outside the town limits. At present the grounds cut off a number of the avenues as laid out by Mr. STEWART. There is still some doubt whether Mr. STEWART'S offer will be accepted.

A few years since that part of West-street, Long Island City, adjoining property of the Long Island Railroad, was closed by the act of the Legislature. Since the recent rapid growth of the First Ward of Long Island City, the re-opening of the street has been found desirable. The part closed at present forms part of the Long Island Railroad yard, and to reach the docks on Newtown Creek, below Central-avenue, a person must go three or four blocks out of the way. The opening of the street is now being agitated, and it is understood it will be brought before the Common Council at the next meeting. The charter recently passed gives the Common Council power to reopen streets.

At the annual election of officers of Grace Church, Jamaica, L. I., held Tuesday morning, the following named gentlemen were elected: Wardens—Wellington J. Robinson.

NEW-JERSEY.

Incendiaries are creating terror at Bordentown. Fires occurred there on Friday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Some of the fires were very damaging, especially the last, in which the Bordentown Machine Company lost about $5,000.

The body of a man named PATRICK HAGGERTY was found, yesterday morning, in the same vat at WARD'S patent leather factory, on Spring-street, Newark. It was HAGGERTY'S business to attend to the hides in this vat, but as he was missing, another workman commenced fishing the hides from the vat with a hook, and in doing so brought the body of the dead man to the surface. HAGGERTY had probably been in the water since the previous Saturday night, as he had not been seen. His actions were irregular, and no alarm was felt at his absence, hence there had been no search. Dr. DODD, the coroner physician, was notified, and will hold an inquest.

The Universalists of Newark have decided to build a new church, and a plot of ground for that purpose has been secured on Broad-street, at a cost of $40,000. The building will be in the pure English Gothic style, built of rubble stone with trimmings of New-Scotch stone. The windows will be stained and the fittings will all be of dark woods. The estimated cost of the building is $80,000.

Prof. MORTON last evening delivered the third lecture of the series before the Stevens' Institute of Technology, it being the last, on the subject of "Light." As with the previous lectures, the hall was intensely crowded. The lecture will be repeated to-night. The next lecture on the course will be delivered on Thursday next by Prof. SILLIMAN, of Yale, on the "Atmosphere."

Rev. Dr. TIFFANY, of Newark, delivered the last of his series of lectures on California in the First Baptist Church, Huntsville, yesterday evening.
